Titorenko, Troy A. A. Harkness, Aging of multicellular and unicellular eukaryotic organisms is a highly complex biological phenomenon that affects a plethora of processes within cells This wide array of longevity defining cellular processes which are governed by an evolutionarily conserved signaling network includes oxidative metabolism and protein synthesis in mitochondria lipid and carbohydrate metabolism NAD homeostasis amino acid biosynthesis and degradation ammonium and amino acid uptake ribosome biogenesis and translation proteasomal protein degradation nuclear DNA replication chromatin assembly and maintenance actin organization apoptosis necrosis autophagy protein folding stress response signal transduction cell cycle and cell growth The focus of this Frontiers Special Topic Issue is on an important conceptual advance in our understanding of how cells integrate and control these numerous processes and how genetic dietary and pharmacological anti aging interventions extend longevity by altering their functional states and spatiotemporal dynamics The Issue will highlight the various strategies used by evolutionarily diverse organisms for coordinating these longevity defining cellular processes in space and time critically evaluate the molecular and cellular mechanisms underlying such coordination and outline the most important unanswered questions and directions for future research in this vibrant and rapidly evolving field

Berry,2013-05-13 Human genetic engineering may soon be possible The gathering debate about this prospect already threatens to become mired in irresolvable disagreement After surveying the scientific and technological developments that have brought us to this pass The Ethics of Genetic Engineering focuses on the ethical and policy debate noting the deep divide that separates proponents and opponents The book locates the source of this divide in differing framing assumptions reductionist pluralist on one side holist communitarian on the other The book argues that we must bridge this divide drawing on the resources from both encampments if we are to understand and cope with the distinctive problems posed by genetic engineering These problems termed fractious problems are novel complex ethically fraught unavoidably of public concern and unavoidably divisive Berry examines three prominent ethical and political theories utilitarianism Kantianism and virtue ethics to consider their competency in bridging the divide and addressing these fractious problems The book concludes that virtue ethics can best guide parental decision making and that a new policymaking approach sketched here a navigational approach can best guide policymaking These approaches enable us to gain a rich understanding of the problems posed and to craft resolutions adequate to their challenges

Lints,M. Hani Soliman,2013-11-21 Many books on ageing attempt to cover the whole field of gerontology However since gerontology is now such a diversified and rapidly expanding subject the results of such attempts tend to be either incomprehensible compendia or encyclopedias of disheartening size The present book aims to be both more modest and more ambitious It focuses on a single object Drosophila but attempts to offer a synthesis of all the gerontological work that has been done on it It also aims to show the extent to which this work has led to an understanding of the biological phenomena of ageing longevity senescence and death in higher organisms including man Finally it attempts on the basis of current knowledge to mark out the paths that the next generation of researchers will most probably follow Drosophila has been used as a model organism to advance our basic knowledge of the fundamentals of genetics and gerontology It may be noted that the pioneering work on the genetics of ageing which used Drosophila began very early in this century within the first decade of the rediscovery of Mendel's laws *California.
