Markets Resources And The Environment Tasman Institute:

Markets, the State, and the Environment Robyn Eckersley, 1995 A reference book consisting mainly of revised versions of selected papers presented at a workshop on Bureaucracy Markets and the Environment held in October 1992 at Monash University Critically examines the range of tools for environmental protection available to governments Provides a set of principles and recommendations to guide environmental policy makers and various contributors assess the various instruments for environmental protection against a range of criteria Considers developments in environmental management in Europe US and Australia Includes an index The author has also written Environmentalism and Political Theory

Australian national bibliography, 1961 Pricing Carbon in Australia Rebecca Pearse, 2017-11-08 In the mid 2000s it seemed that the global carbon market would take off and spark the worldwide transition to a profitable low carbon economy A decade on the experiment in carbon trading is failing Carbon market schemes have been plagued by problems and resistance to carbon pricing has come from the political Left and Right In the Australian case a national emissions trading scheme ETS was dismantled after a long bitter public debate The replacement Direct Action Plan is also in disrepute Pricing Carbon in Australia examines the rise and fall of the ETS in Australia between 2007 and 2015 exploring the underlying contradictions of marketised climate policy in detail Through this and other international examples the book offers a critique of the political economy of marketised climate policy exploring why the hopes for global carbon trading have been dashed The Australian case is interpreted in light of a broader legitimisation crisis as state strategies for temporarily displacing the climate crisis continue to fail Importantly in the wake of carbon market failure alternative agendas for state action are emerging as campaigns for the retrenchment of fossil fuel assets and for just renewable energy transition continue transforming climate politics and policy as we know it This book is a valuable resource for practitioners and academics in the fields of environmental policy and politics and social movement studies New Instruments of Environmental Governance? Andrew Jordan, Rudiger K.W. Wurzel, Anthony R. Zito, 2004-11-23 The use of so called new environmental policy instruments such as eco taxes tradable permits voluntary agreements and eco labels has prompted widespread claims that these devices have replaced regulation These papers offer a fresh perspective on the evolving tool box of environmental policy Global Warming and Climate Change Maria Taylor, 2014-12-15 1988 coming to grips with a terrifying global experiment The Toronto conference statement made it clear that climate change would affect everyone It called greenhouse gas atmospheric pollution an uncontrolled globally pervasive experiment whose ultimate consequences could be second only to nuclear war World governments were urged to swiftly develop emission reduction targets The changing atmosphere implications for global security 1988 Relevant to both Australian and overseas audiences here is the untold story of how Australia buried its knowledge on climate change science and response options during the 1990s going from clarity to confusion and doubt after arguably leading the world in citizen understanding and a political will to act in the late 1980s

What happened and why is a fascinating exploration drawing on the public record of how a society revised its good understanding on a critical issue affecting every citizen. It happened through political and media communication regardless of international scientific assessments that have remained consistent in ascribing causes and risks since 1990. How could this happen? The author examines the major influences with lessons for the present on how the story was reframed. Key values and beliefs including economic beliefs that trumped the science, the ability of changing political leaders and the mass media to set the story for the public as well as the role of scientists' own communication over time and the use and misuse of uncertainty.

Environment & Planning A., 1997 Australian National Bibliography: 1992 National Library of Australia, 1988 Bibliography of Agriculture with Subject Index, 1993-11 Climate Change 1995: Economic and Social Dimensions of Climate Change Hoesong Yi, Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change. Working Group III., 1996-06-27. The consequences of climate change for society are analysed in this landmark assessment from the IPCC. This book assesses the available knowledge on the many issues that society has to face including the international decision making framework, applicability to climate change of techniques for assessing costs and benefits, the significant social costs of projected climate change and the economic assessment of policy instruments to combat climate change nationally and internationally. Some important conclusions of this Second Assessment Report indicate that 10 to 30% of greenhouse gas emissions in most countries can be reduced at negative or zero cost, no regrets measures. Also, the literature indicates that climate change will cause aggregate net damage which provides an economic rationale for going beyond no regrets measures. It also indicates that a portfolio of mitigation, adaptation and research measures is a sound strategy for addressing climate change given the remaining uncertainties. This report speaks directly to the issues that are faced by the many countries committed to limit emissions of greenhouse gases by the year 2000 and currently negotiating actions to be taken beyond that date. Will be of great value to the international community of policymakers interested in the consequences of climate change as well as to economists, social and natural scientists.

Modelling Change in Integrated Economic and Environmental Systems S. Mahendrarajah, A. J. Jakeman, M. J. McAleer, Michael McAleer, 1999-11-05. This accessible volume fills a much needed gap and addresses core issues on how economic and environmental systems are interconnected, looking at how economic frameworks and features of environmental systems can be integrated within formal models to address changes and associated resource management issues at appropriate levels: micro level and national or global level. The more the relationship between economic and environmental systems is studied analytically and empirically, the more aware we become of the gap in our existing knowledge of environmental data and process parameters. While important empirical questions are unanswered in environmental economics literature, work on the environmental science of ecological systems fails to raise the right questions and identify key variables in human exploited ecosystems. This book covers Concepts and Methods, Land Water and Production, Biodiversity Preservation and Production, Pollution Externalities, The Environment and Global Economy. This timely book will be of interest to environmental scientists economists and policy makers students academics and researchers interested in ecosystems modelling ecological economics and environmental resource economics     Integrated Environmental Management Yasumasa Itakura, 1999-04-29 The change from a rural to an industrial economy affects many countries Rapid growth and development causes significant changes in environmental management for countries beginning to confront serious degradation problems In the Pacific Rim rich in environmental and human resources widespread pollution problems affect water and air quality contaminating groundwater and soils and dramatically increasing human exposure to hazardous waste Critical resources such as rainforests disappear at an alarming rate The book features in depth reviews of the Pacific Rim s increasing environmental problems It examines every major issue including hazardous waste solid waste water and wastewater air pollution biodiversity industrial waste and much more The final chapters outline education and information sharing strategies designed to change environmental policy putting the focus on slowing growth and working towards sustainable development Integrated Environmental Management provides an information packed review of the regions environmental problems concentrating on problem solving sustainable development and education Anyone faced with environmental problems related to population growth and rapid industrialization will find this book particularly enlightening

Current Issues in Environmental Economics Per-Olov Johansson, Bengt Kriström, Karl-Göran Mäler, 1995 This text examines some major issues in environmental economics looking in particular at the issue of unpriced services provided by the environment and how to value them     The Evolution of Markets for Water Jeff Bennett, 2005-01-01 How policymakers are striving to move away from government regulation and achieve a balance between a property rights and a market based approach to the allocation of water resources     Environmental Regulation Through Financial

Organisations: Comparative Perspectives on the Industrialised Nations Benjamin Richardson, 2002-02-13 This book takes a comparative perspective of practice in the European Union North America Japan and Australasia arguing that existing legal reforms to promote sustainable development are unlikely to be successful unless environmental policy can be diffused and embedded in the financial services sector This sector plays a crucial role in creating the financial conditions that allow much economic development to proceed Financial markets are already highly regulated in pursuance of various public policy objectives and there is scope to adapt existing regulation to incorporate environmental aspects into the financial services sector In terms of specific reforms the book focuses on the role of corporate environmental reporting economic instruments and liability rules to provide a proper context for engaging financial organisations with the environment as well as reforms to the system of prudential regulation that currently governs this sector Beyond the focus on the financial services sector the book raises complex questions regarding the relationship between the state and market institutions in environmental policy and will appeal to scholars from a wide range of disciplines interested in problems of environmental governance     Environment & Planning , 1992     The Economics of Third World National Parks Anup Shah, 1995 National parks and game reserves are under threat from exploitation by tourists and by people living on their borders Parks although highly valued by conservationists are not protected from unregulated economic behaviour within and outside their borders In The Economics of Third World National Parks Anup Shah argues that parks and reserves are worth preserving rigorously analyses the problem and advocates solutions drawing on a wide range of sources Issues discussed include the effects of economic activity on a national park the tourist problem valuing a national park and the use of cost benefit decision making Dr Shah uses economic analysis to explore institutional arrangements which would compensate for externalities resulting from exploitation and over use by tourists and local communities The price mechanism he argues is not a satisfactory tool with which to protect areas of rich bio diversity The Economics of Third World National Parks presents a clear and thoughtful application of economic thought and especially the concept of externalities to a key problem which current institutional structures seem unable to resolve

Water Markets Wheeler, Sarah A., 2021-08-27 Exploring water scarcity issues in light of the growing crisis in global water management this book examines the applicability of water markets It provides an overview and understanding of the presence of water markets across the globe analysing the ways in which different countries and regions are grappling with water scarcity

Market Civilizations Quinn Slobodian, Dieter Plehwe, Esra Elif Nartok, Aditya Balasubramanian, Tobias Rupperecht, Isabella M. Weber, Antina von Schnitzler, Jeremy Walker, Paulo Chamon, Karin Fischer, Mila Jonjic, Nenad Pantelic, Lars Mjøset, Reto Hofmann, Jimmy Casas Klausen, 2022-05-24 A deep investigation of neoliberalism s proselytizers in Eastern Europe and the Global South Where does free market ideology come from Recent work on the neoliberal intellectual movement around the Mont Pelerin Society has allowed for closer study of the relationship between ideas interests and institutions Yet even as this literature brought neoliberalism down to earth it tended to reproduce a European and American perspective on the world With the notable exception of Augusto Pinochet s Chile long seen as a laboratory of neoliberalism the new literature followed a story of diffusion as ideas migrated outward from the Global North Even in the most innovative work the cast of characters remains surprisingly limited clustering around famous intellectuals like Milton Friedman and Friedrich Hayek Market Civilizations redresses this absence by introducing a range of characters and voices active in the transnational neoliberal movement from the Global South and Eastern Europe This includes B R Shenoy an early member of the Mont Pelerin Society from India who has been canonized in some circles since the Singh reforms Manuel Ayau another MPS president and founder of the Marroqu n University an underappreciated Latin

American node in the neoliberal network Chinese intellectuals who read Hayek and Mises through local circumstances and many others Seeing neoliberalism from beyond the industrial core helps us understand what made radical capitalism attractive to diverse populations and how often disruptive policy ideas went local
