Congress, The Geography of Defence Michael Bateman, Raymond Riley, 2015-12-22 Defence against military attack has had a considerable geographical impact Urban morphology frequently owes more to the defence function than to any other whilst local regional and national economies are often intricately dependent on defence expenditure It is also clear that the social geography of cities both recently and in the past has been affected by the presence of the military Despite its importance defence as a major government function has not been the focus of geographical analysis in the same way as housing transport health or education This volume redresses this imbalance by demonstrating the geographical importance of defence in these vital areas Women of the Regiment Myna Trustram, 1984-08-31 This book is a detailed study of the domestic background of life in the Victorian army It describes the lives of women who lived on the edge of the regimental community as wives daughters prostitutes lovers and workers It examines the development of policy on marriage of men in the ranks and discusses the links between the military regulation of marriage and Victorian legislation on prostitution The early history of the service family and the sources of welfare available to families the poor law philanthropy and the regimental system itself are examined in the light of attitudes to soldiers marriages Women of the Regiment reveals the hitherto unexplored role played by the military in shaping Victorian social policy domestic ideology and attitudes to sexuality Its originality lies in its feminist discussions of an institution notorious as a male stronghold as such it makes a vital contribution to our understanding of the nature of masculinity and women s oppression Reports from Commissioners Great Britain.
