British Literature and Culture in Second World Wartime Beryl Pong, 2020-05-14 British Literature and Culture in Second World Wartime excavates British late modernism's relationship to war in terms of chronophobia a joint fear of the past and future As a wartime between but distinct from those of the First World War and the Cold War Second World wartime involves an anxiety that is both repetition and imaginary both a dread of past violence unleashed anew and that of a future violence still ungraspable Identifying a constellation of temporalities and affects under three tropes time capsules time zones and ruins this volume contends that Second World wartime is a pivotal moment when wartime surpassed the boundaries of a specific state of emergency becoming first routine and then open ended It offers a synoptic wide ranging look at writers on the home front including Henry Green Elizabeth Bowen Virginia Woolf and Rose Macaulay through a variety of genres such as life writing the novel and the short story It also considers an array of cultural and archival material from photographers such as Cecil Beaton filmmakers such as Charles Crichton and artists such as John Minton It shows how figures harnessed or exploited their media's temporal properties to formally register the distinctiveness of this wartime through a complex feedback between anticipation and retrospection oftentimes fashioning the war as a memory even while it was taking place While offering a strong foundation for new readers of the mid century the book's overall theoretical focus on chronophobia will be an important intervention for those already working in the field

The Cinema of Britain and Ireland Brian McFarlane, 2005 A fresh concise but wide ranging introduction to and overview of British and Irish cinema this volume contains 24 essays each on a separate seminal film from the region Films under discussion include Pink String and Sealing Wax Room at the Top The Italian Job Orlando and Sweet Sixteen

Four from the forties Brian McFarlane, 2018-09-14 The Gainsborough melodramas were a mainstay of 1940s British cinema and helped make the careers of such stars as Margaret Lockwood James Mason and Stewart Granger But what was unique about these films And who were the directors behind them This book presents four key filmmakers each with his own talents and specialities It traces their professional lives through the highs of the 1940s when the popularity of Gainsborough films was at its peak to the tougher decades that followed the genre's decline Featuring expert analysis of such films as The Man in Grey 1943 Madonna of the Seven Moons 1945 and The Upturned Glass 1947 alongside valuable historical context the book constitutes the first extended examination of this group of directors It combines critical acumen with readability making it a valuable resource for students lecturers and general readers alike

The British Avant-garde Film, 1926-1995 Michael O'Pray, 1996 This collection of essay celebrating British avant garde cinema's rich history draws together writings by filmmakers theorists critics and curators These individuals have been engaged over the past 70 years with film not only as a form of art practice but also as a subversive means of representing British society itself and as a personal expression of issues of memory sexuality and ethnicity Included are essays from a wide range of distinguished writers from Virginia Woolf Lindsay Anderson and Peter Gidal to Laura Mulvey Peter Wollen and Malcolm Le Grice Heroes And Villains: Film Adaptations Of Shakespearean Drama. Henry V, Hamlet & Macbeth Robert Johnson, British Economic and Social History R. C. Richardson, William Henry Chaloner, 1996 A New History of British Documentary J. Chapman, 2015-03-11 A New History of British Documentary is the first comprehensive overview of documentary production in Britain from early film to the present day It covers both the film and television industries and demonstrates how documentary practice has adapted to changing institutional and ideological contexts London in Cinema Charlotte Brunsdon, 2019-07-25 Charlotte Brunsdon's illuminating study explores the variety of cinematic Londons that appear in films made since 1945 Brunsdon traces the familiar ways that film makers establish that a film is set in London by use of recognisable landmarks and the city's shorthand iconography of red buses and black taxis as well as the ways in which these icons are avoided She looks at London weather fog and rain and everyday locations like the pub and the housing estate while also examining the recurring patterns of representation associated with films set in the East and West Ends of London from Spring in Park Lane 1948 to Mona Lisa 1986 and from Night and the City 1950 to From Hell 2001 Brunsdon provides a detailed analysis of a selection of films exploring their contribution to the cinematic geography of London and showing the ways in which feature films have responded to and created changing views of the city She traces London's transformation from imperial capital to global city through the different ways in which the local is imagined in films ranging from Ealing comedies to Pressure 1974 as well as through the shifting imagery of the River Thames and the Docks She addresses the role of cinematic genres such as horror and film noir in the constitution of the cinematic city as well as the recurrence of figures such as the cockney the gangster and the housewife Challenging the view that London is not a particularly cinematic city Brunsdon demonstrates that many London set films offer their own meditation on the complex relationships between the cinema and the city Patriots Richard Weight, 2013-10-17 Who are the British today For nearly three hundred years British national identity was a unifying force in times of glory and despair It has now virtually disappeared In Patriots Richard Weight explores the decline of Britishness and the rise of powerful new identities in England Scotland Wales and Ireland Based on a wealth of original research it is scholarly in depth and scope yet never departs from a thoroughly readable and entertaining style Here are the themes of Orwell's The Lion and the Unicorn stretched over the subsequent sixty years and widened to embrace the whole United Kingdom Brimming with zest and feel this is politico cultural history at its best Peter Hennessy Wide ranging intelligent sensible and important Max Hastings Sunday Telegraph A marvellously rich ambitious and at times iconoclastic study by a young historian of how in the broadest sense national identity in Britain has changed in the last 60 or so years David Kynaston Financial Times A major work the fruit of long research wide reading and hard thinking engagingly written bubbling with fresh ideas Stephen Howe Independent Films and British National Identity Jeffrey Richards, 1997-09-15

This book seeks to examine the ways in which the cinema has defined mythified and disseminated British national identity during the course of the twentieth century. It takes the form of a series of linked essays which examine chronologically thematically and by specific case studies of films stars and genres the complexities and ambiguities in the process of evolution and definition of the national identity. It argues for the creation of a distinctive British national identity both in cinema and the wider culture. But it also assesses the creation of alternative identities both ethnic and regional and examines the interaction of cinema and other cultural forms music literature and television.

A State of Play Steven Fielding, 2014-04-24 A State of Play explores how the British have imagined their politics from the parliament worship of Anthony Trollope to the cynicism of The Thick of It. In an account that mixes historical with political analysis Steven Fielding argues that fictional depictions of politics have played an important but insidious part in shaping how the British think about their democracy and have helped ventilate their many frustrations with Westminster. He shows that dramas and fictions have also performed a significant role in the battle of ideas in a way undreamt of by those who draft party manifestos. The book examines the work of overtly political writers have treated the subject discussing the novels of H G Wells the comedy series Yes Minister and the plays of David Hare. However it also assesses how less obvious sources such as the films of George Formby the novels of Agatha Christie the Just William stories and situation comedies like Steptoe and Son have reflected on representative democracy. A State of Play is an invaluable distinctive and engaging guide to a new way of thinking about Britain's political past and present.

David Lean Lydia Goehr, 2025-07-10 David Lean's extraordinary films work philosophically through the modern reproductive and transportive technologies of sight and sound through trains planes ships and automobiles from one perspective and through the modern technology of the radio and gramophone from another. Lean's musical motifs are known worldwide: Lara's theme in Zhivago the Colonel Bogey March in Kwai Estella's motif in Great Expectations Rosy's motif in Ryan's Daughter Lawrence's motif for his adventure in Arabia and of course Rachmaninoff's pounding chords in Brief Encounter. When however Lean described his cutting of pictures as akin to how music flows through pictures what sort of music or musicality had he in mind a classical or popular music or a way of using musical form to mix up the meaning and material of his films. Lydia Goehr's new book tracks the soundscape in Lean's films not only through the musical scores composed for the films but also and more through the technology of radio and gramophone that at the start of Lean's career were becoming indispensable household items for the home. The book begins and ends with a motif running from the early more domestic films locally situated in the English home to the later more extensive epics of colony commonwealth and empire. The fidelity infidelity relationship defined by marriage extends to the loyalty betrayal relationship regarding countries of war and peace after which this relationship is extended to the witty British manner of making film as a perfected and not so perfected symphonic work of a great cutter's art. Here as few other books on Lean have emphasized the influence of Noel Coward on Lean cannot be overestimated.

The art of the possible Chris

Williams, Andrew Edwards, 2015-07-01 This volume explores some of the major transitions opportunities and false dawns of modern British political history It engages with the scholarly legacy of Professor Duncan Tanner 1958 2010 whose work was focused on the political process and on politics in government Chronologically its span runs from the first general election to be conducted under the terms of the Third Reform Act through to the 1997 referenda in favour of devolved assemblies in Scotland and Wales This was the period in which British politicians most obviously addressed a mass British wide electorate seeking national approval for policies and programmes to be enacted on a UK wide basis Aimed at scholars and students of modern British history this volume will also interest the general reader who wishes to get to grips with some of the latest thinking about British politics Shakespeare and British World War Two Film Garrett A. Sullivan, Jr, 2022-03-31

During World War Two many British writers and thinkers turned to Shakespeare in order to articulate the values for which their nation was fighting Yet the cinema presented moviegoers with a more multifaceted Shakespeare one who signalled division as well as unity Shakespeare and British World War Two Film models a synchronic approach to adaptation that by situating the Shakespeare movie within histories of film and society avoids the familiar impasse in which the playwright's works are the beginning middle and end of critical study Through close analysis of works by Laurence Olivier Leslie Howard Humphrey Jennings and the partners Michael Powell and Emeric Pressburger among others this study demonstrates how Shakespeare served as a powerful imaginative resource for filmmakers seeking to think through some of the most pressing issues and problems that beset wartime British society "Un-American" Hollywood Frank Krutnik, 2007 Un American Hollywood debates the blacklist era and the aesthetic and political work of the Hollywood Left Featuring case studies focusing on contexts of production and reception it offers perspectives on the role of progressive politics within a capitalist media industry Film - An International Bibliography Malte Hagener, Michael Töteberg, 2016-12-16 Kommentierte Bibliografie Sie gibt Wissenschaftlern Studierenden und Journalisten zuverlässig Auskunft über rund 6000 internationale Veröffentlichungen zum Thema Film und Medien Die vorgestellten Rubriken reichen von Nachschlagewerk über Filmgeschichte bis hin zu Fernsehen Video Multimedia Narrating the Thirties J. Baxendale, C. Pawling, 1995-12-14 In a series of case studies ranging widely from documentary film and the writings of J B Priestley to postwar historiography and Remains of the Day this book explores the ever changing and hotly contested narratives of Britain in the 1930s The authors argue that images of the Thirties have been a continual presence in the construction of the wartime and postwar world and in particular in the emergent discourse of social democracy and its subsequent decline Britain since 1939 David Childs, 2001-12-05 In this thoroughly revised 2nd edition David Childs gives a detailed account of political social and economic developments since 1919 including the impact of the Second World War Britain's often neglected last days as an Empire India Palestine Kenya Cyprus and elsewhere are covered necessary background for an understanding of Britain today The decline of the Conservatives and the Blair experience are also covered at length and a sketch of Ireland from the Free State to today's prosperous Republic is included Biographical materials and interviews enliven the text Mention is made of the discussion on decline at various points in British history but Childs concludes that although Britain faces very serious problems its people are better off than ever before in terms of prosperity and personal freedom From silent screen to multi-screen Stuart Hanson, 2019-01-04 Detailed and comprehensive this book is the first survey of cinema exhibition in Britain from its inception until the present Charting the development of cinema exhibition and cinema going in Britain from the first public film screening by the Lumière Brothers at London's Regent Street Polytechnic in February 1896 through to the development of the multiplex and giant megaplex cinemas the history of cinema exhibition is placed in its wider social cultural and economic contexts Adopting a chronological structure this book takes into account how changes in the structure of the film industry especially regarding the exhibition sector impacted upon the cinema going experience From silent screen to multi screen will be valuable for social historians as well as scholars and students in film studies media studies and cultural history
