, 1985-07 Living by the Gun in Chad Marielle Debos, 2016-10-15 How do people live in a country that has experienced rebellions and state organised repressions for decades and that is still marked by routine forms of violence and impunity What do combatants do when they are not mobilised for war Drawing on over ten years of fieldwork conducted in Chad Marielle Debos explains how living by the gun has become both an acceptable form of political expression and an everyday occupation Contrary to the popular association of violence and chaos she shows that these fighters continue to observe rules frontiers and hierarchies even as their allegiances shift between rebel and government forces and as they drift between Chad Libya Sudan and the Central African Republic Going further she explores the role of the globalised politico military entrepreneurs and highlights the long involvement of the French military in the country Ultimately the book demonstrates that ending the war is not enough The issue is ending the inter war which is maintained and reproduced by state violence Combining ethnographic observation with in depth theoretical analysis Living by the Gun in Chad is a crucial contribution to our understanding of the intersections of war and peace Human Rights Great Britain. Libya Jacob Mundy,2018-10-15 Libya is teetering on the edge of collapse having become a new haven for terrorist organizations and an epicenter of the refugee crisis Few could have imagined that the uprising against the longstanding regime of Mu ammar Al Gaddafi would expose a polity deeply fractured by internal divisions Fewer still could have predicted the intractability of the conflicts that emerged in the wake of this revolution Jacob Mundy's Libya is the first book to explain the political security and humanitarian crises that have engulfed Libya Africa's largest oil exporting country since the Arab Spring of 2011 Examining the roots of the anti Gaddafi revolution and the failures that resulted in the country's descent into chaos Mundy identifies new centers of power that coalesced in the wake of the regime's collapse The more these rival coalitions vied for political authority and control over Libya's vast oil wealth the more they reached out to external actors who were playing their own great game in Libya and across the region In the face of such a multifaceted crisis the future looks grim as the international community seems unable to bring peace to this divided and conflict ridden nation

The Real Politics of the Horn of Africa Alex de Waal,2015-10-19 The Real Politics of the Horn of Africa delves into the business of politics in the turbulent war torn countries of north east Africa It is a contemporary history of how politicians generals and insurgents bargain over money and power and use of war to achieve their goals Drawing on a thirty year career in Sudan Ethiopia Eritrea and Somalia including experience as a participant in high level peace talks Alex de Waal provides a unique and compelling account of how these countries leaders run their governments conduct their business fight their wars and occasionally make peace De Waal shows how leaders operate on a business model securing funds for their political budgets which they use to rent the provisional allegiances of army officers militia commanders tribal chiefs and party officials at the going rate This political marketplace is eroding the institutions of government and reversing statebuilding and it is fuelled in large part by oil exports aid funds and western military assistance for counter terrorism and peacekeeping The Real Politics of the Horn of Africa is a sharp and disturbing book with profound implications for international relations development and peacemaking in the Horn of Africa and beyond

Chad Patrick Marnham,1988-09-01 Since its Independence in 1960 Chad has been torn apart by internal rebellion and civil war A series of regimes have imposed various forms of arbitrary rule while large areas have been held under the changing fortunes of warlords disaffected military commanders opposition groups guerrilla bands and foreign backed forces including those of France and Libya Is it possible for a poor landlocked country with many different ethnic groups to build a viable Nation State Chad's diverse population is divided between the numerous African Sara peoples of the far south the Arabic speakers of the centre and the minority tribes of the northern third of the country The Sara are mainly Christians and animists while the others are Muslims Ethnic and religious antagonisms have been and continue to be fuelled by resentment at economic exactions widespread corruption and arbitrary rule Conflict whether in riots or civil war has led to many thousands of people dying and hundreds of thousands fleeing into exile as refugees Attempts by the OAU to bring about reconciliation have not been successful Today with the regime of President Hissen Habr most of Chad is again under one government this time dominated by a small minority group from the far north but can Habr win the peace Chad Minority Rights Group report no 80 examines the roots and course of the conflict in this desperately poor African nation Written by Kaye Whiteman Editor in Chief of West Africa and an experienced commentator on Africa this report outlines Chad's bloody history since Independence and its prospects for the future Essential reading for all those interested in modern Africa and its future Please note that the terminology in the fields of minority rights and indigenous peoples rights has changed over time MRG strives to reflect these changes as well as respect the right to self identification on the part of minorities and indigenous peoples At the same time after over 50 years work we know that our archive is of considerable interest to activists and researchers Therefore we make available as much of our back catalogue as possible while being aware that the language used may not reflect current thinking on these issues

Genocide and Crisis in Central Africa Christian P. Scherrer, 2001-11-30 Scherrer examines the ethnicized conflicts periodic war and genocide in Rwanda and Burundi The 1994 genocide in Rwanda may have resulted in the murder of a million Tutsi and moderate Hutu while the mass killings in Burundi especially in 1993 when some 200 000 Hutu and Tutsi were killed and the current ongoing war in the Congo appear to have the potential to escalate into another round of genocide in the region Scherrer explores the background to the conflicts in the Great Lakes Region as well as what the international community might do to break this tragic cycle of violence and despair Following a chapter on the history of the region before independence in 1960-61 he examines the 1994 genocide in Rwanda and the subsequent attempts to promote justice reconstruction human rights work and genocide prevention Scherrer pays particular attention to the role of the Western powers the UN and the aid system and he is critical of all of these institutions He also analyzes what is happening in neighboring Burundi and the Congo An important research for scholars and policymakers involved with Central African affairs and ethnicized conflict

The New Breadline Jean-Martin Bauer, 2024-06-25 A humanitarian leader with more than two decades of experience working for the United Nations takes aim at the global food crisis revealing how hunger anywhere affects lives everywhere and what steps we can take to change course This book should be required reading for the entire human race Jonathan Safran Foer author of We Are the Weather At the turn of the twenty first century more than 150 countries pledged to eradicate hunger by 2030 But with only a few years left we're far from reaching that goal Instead hunger is on the rise America itself recently experienced levels of food insecurity not seen since the Great Depression How could the richest nation in the world have so many people going hungry In The New Breadline aid worker and activist Jean Martin Bauer unravels this paradox Bauer s family fled to America during the terrors of the Duvalier dictatorship in Haiti Now on the brink of mass starvation Haiti and its grim history inspired Bauer to make food justice his life s work During his long career with the UN Bauer learned firsthand that the problem of hunger is always political and like all political conditions hunger he knew was something we could work to change Drawing from his fieldwork in the most hunger prone countries across the globe from Haiti where elites hoard imported French cheese to Madagascar where foreign corporations are snatching up valuable land from local farmers to right here in America where the lines at food banks continue to grow Bauer weaves profound personal insight with a keen understanding of the structural systems of racism classism and sexism that thwart true progress in the battle against hunger The New Breadline is an inspiring call to action to end what he persuasively argues is one of the greatest threats to our society boldly envisioning a world where we can always feed ourselves and one another
