largely unpublished letters home her study illuminates that the only way missionary organizations like the deaconesses could succeed was by entering into negotiations with their local environment adapting their agenda in the process Mission therefore was shaped not merely at home but by conflictual negotiations on the periphery a perspective quite different from the top down isolationist perspective of earlier research on missions

Infidels Andrew Wheatcroft, 2004-06-15 Here is the first panoptic history of the long struggle between the Christian West and Islam In this dazzlingly written acutely nuanced account Andrew Wheatcroft tracks a deep fault line of animosity between civilizations He begins with a stunning account of the Battle of Lepanto in 1571 then turns to the main zones of conflict Spain from which the descendants of the Moors were eventually expelled the Middle East where Crusaders and Muslims clashed for years and the Balkans where distant memories spurred atrocities even into the twentieth century Throughout Wheatcroft delves beneath stereotypes looking incisively at how images ideas language and technology from the printing press to the Internet as well as politics religion and conquest have allowed each side to demonize the other revive old grievances and fuel across centuries a seemingly unquenchable enmity Finally Wheatcroft tells how this fraught history led to our present maelstrom We cannot he argues come to terms with today's perplexing animosities without confronting this dark past
