

Respiration in Aquatic Organisms

The evolution of larger, more complicated aquatic organisms capable of high metabolic rates required additional solutions to those already mentioned

- Many of these organisms employ specialized respiratory structures called gills.
  - Gills are basically areas of the body modified for gas exchange by virtue of being either highly evaginated or highly invaginated.
  - The large surface area allows for rapid gas exchange
- the problem that remains is getting that  $O_2$  to the tissues that need it.
- For this, many organisms have evolved circulatory systems
  - pump an internal fluid through the gills to obtain  $O_2$
  - then transport the  $O_2$  to metabolizing tissue.
  - Often pigments, probably derived from pigments used in the electron transport chain, are used to carry the  $O_2$  in the circulatory fluid, or blood.
