Restorative Gardens The Healing Landscape:

Restorative Gardens Nancy Gerlach-Spriggs, Richard Enoch Kaufman, Sam Bass Warner, 1998-01-01 Restorative gardens for the sick which were a vital part of the healing process from the Middle Ages to the early twentieth century provided ordered and beautiful settings in which patients could begin to heal both physically and mentally In this engaging book a landscape architect a physician and a historian examine the history and role of restorative gardens to show why it is important to again integrate nature into the institutional and largely factorylike settings of modern health care facilities In this unique book Nancy Gerlach Spriggs Dr Richard Enoch Kaufman and Sam Bass Warner Jr unfold their argument by presenting the history of restorative gardens and studies of six American health care centers that cherish the role of their gardens in the therapeutic process These institutions are examined in detail community hospitals in Wausau Wisconsin and Monterey California a full care mental institution in Philadelphia a nursing home in Queens a facility for rehabilitative medicine in New York City and a hospice in Houston In their comprehensive review the authors suggest that contemporary scientific understanding clearly recognizes the beneficial physiological effects of garden environments on patients well being The book ends with a plea to make gardens rather than the shopping mall atria so often seen in newly renovated hospitals a vital part of the medical milieu
