Integrated Lake and Reservoir Management Wendy S. Ayres,1997 New Evaluation Procedures for a New Generation of Water-related Projects Ronald G. Cummings,Ariel Dinar,Douglas Olson,1996-01-01 This groundbreaking study presents the results of a large survey of more than 400 industrial firms in Russia conducted by the World Bank in mid 1994 The survey examined the role and organization of the enterprise sector

which is a key issue in transition economies particularly in Russia where a concerted attempt has been made to change ownership arrangements and hence corporate governance More than half the firms surveyed are in the private sector the rest remain in state hands or are partially privatized A major focus of the book is to understand whether the Russian privatization has led to improvements in corporate governance The authors identify some initial positive changes but also find that the manner in which privatization has occurred has not yet had a strong effect on the internal operations of Russian industrial firms However they do find evidence from their sample of significant growth in new firms The volume examines the positive and negative aspects of restructuring employment and workers compensation issues budget constraints the effects of privatization on employee behavior and future prospects for Russian firms

The Legal Framework for Water Users' Associations

Salman M. A. Salman, 1997-01-01 Recent experience confirms that participation of farmers in managing parts of an irrigation system and collecting water charges usually results in a more efficient use of water To be effective farmers in the hydraulic unit would need to organize themselves by establishing a water users association This paper presents a comparative study of the legal framework for these associations in Colombia India Mexico Nepal the Philippines and Turkey Building on the theory that participation of farmers in managing and operating parts of an irrigation system will result in an optimum use of water the document analyzes in a comparative manner how each of these countries addressed the basic aspects related to the establishment and functioning of such associations Additional emphasis is placed on the collection of water charges

Sector Investment Programs in Africa

Stephen P. Jones, 1997-01-01 South Asia has made much progress in deregulation and liberalization in the 1990s but it still remains one of the least integrated regions in the world However this general trend masks wide disparities among South Asian nations the larger economies tend to be more highly protected with low import penetration rates while the smaller economies are relatively more open If the current reform program continues the benefits of liberalization will translate into higher growth This report reviews the regions economic performance from an international perspective and the steps taken to increase integration especially in terms of financial integration increased foreign direct investment portfolio and capital flows and regional integration intra regional trade regional arrangements Chapters also discuss the economic outlook for the region and prospects for South Asian exports such as textiles and clothing
