Minstrels and Minstrelsy in Late Medieval England Richard Rastall, Andrew Taylor, 2023 A major new study piecing together the intriguing but fragmentary evidence surrounding the lives of minstrels to highlight how these seemingly peripheral figures were keenly involved with all aspects of late medieval communities Minstrels were a common sight and sound in the late Middle Ages Aristocrats knights and ladies heard them on great occasions such as Edward I's wedding feast for his daughter Elizabeth in 1296 and in quieter moments in their chambers town dwellers heard and saw them in civic processions when their sound drew attention to the spectacle and even in the countryside people heard them at weddings church ales and other parish celebrations But who were the minstrels and what did they do How did they live and how easily did they make a living How did they perform and in what conditions The evidence is intriguing but fragmentary including literary and iconographic sources and most importantly the financial records of royal and aristocratic households and of towns These offer many insights although they are often hard to fit into any coherent picture of the minstrels' lives and their place in society It is easy to see the minstrels as peripheral figures entertainers who had no central place in the medieval world Yet they were full members of it interacting with the ordinary people around them as well as with the ruling classes carrying letters and important verbal messages some lending huge sums of money to the king to finance Henry V's Agincourt campaign in 1415 for instance some regular and necessary civic servants some committing crimes or suffering the crimes of others In this book Rastall and Taylor bring to bear the available evidence to enlarge and enrich our view of the minstrel in late medieval society Telling the Story in the Middle Ages Kathryn A. Duys, Elizabeth Nicole Emery, Laurie

Postlewaite, 2015 Much of our modern understanding of medieval society and cultures comes through the stories people told and the way they told them Storytelling was for this period not only entertainment it was central to the law religious ritual and teaching as well as the primary mode of delivering news The essays in this volume raise and discuss a number of questions concerning the strategies contexts and narratological features of medieval storytelling They look particularly at who tells the story the audience how a story is told and performed and the manuscript and social context for such tales Laurie Postlewaite is Senior Lecturer Department of French Barnard College Kathryn Duys is Associate Professor Department of English and Foreign Languages University of St Francis Elizabeth Emery is Professor of French Montclair State University

Partonopeus de Blois Penny Eley, 2011 First book length treatment of a fascinating medieval French romance underlining its influence in the genre Partonopeus de Blois is one of the most important works of twelfth century French fiction it shaped the development of romance as a genre gave rise to adaptations in several other medieval languages and even an opera Massenet's Esclarmonde However partly because of its complicated transmission history and partly due to the fact that it has been overshadowed by the works of Chrétien de Troyes it has been unjustly neglected This first full length study of the romance brings together literary historical and manuscript studies to explore its making as it evolved through seven medieval editions the earliest of which probably predated most of Chr tien s romances The book s thematic analyses show how the Partonopeus poet applied established techniques of rewriting to a wide range of classical vernacular and Celtic sources combining this literary fusion with political subtexts to create a new and influential model of romance composition Detailed studies of the Continuation reveal more ambitious experimentation by the original author as well as the activities of a series of editors who continued to modify the text for over a century A final discussion of patronage proposes a new reading of the poem s distinct narratorial interventions on women and love and suggests a link between Partonopeus and a disturbing episode in the history of Blois Penny Eley is Professor of Medieval French at the University of Sheffield Living by the Sword Kristen Brooke Neuschel,2020-11-15 Sharpen your knowledge of swords with Kristen B Neuschel as she takes you through a captivating 1 000 years of French and English history Living by the Sword reveals that warrior culture with the sword as its ultimate symbol was deeply rooted in ritual long before the introduction of gunpowder weapons transformed the battlefield Neuschel argues that objects have agency and that decoding their meaning involves seeing them in motion bought sold exchanged refurbished written about displayed and used in ceremony Drawing on evidence about swords from wills inventories records of armories and treasuries in the possession of nobles and royalty she explores the meanings people attached to them from the contexts in which they appeared These environments included other prestige goods such as tapestries jewels and tableware all used to construct and display status Living by the Sword draws on an exciting diversity of sources from archaeology military and social history literature and material culture studies to inspire students and educated lay readers including collectors and reenactors to stretch the boundaries of what they know as the war and culture genre
