Global and Regional Approaches to Arms Control in the Middle East Gamal M. Selim, 2013-07-11 Since the end of the Cold War the Middle East has been the focus of various projects for the establishment of arms control including CBMs regimes Whereas some of these projects were initiated at the global level others were discussed and debated at the regional level This book analyses the global and regional dynamics of arms control in the Middle East in the post Cold War era It examines American and European arms control projects the contexts in which they were presented the reactions of major regional actors and their impacts on arms control efforts in the region It assesses Arab perceptions of the motivations for and constraints on establishing arms control regimes It also explores the prospects of regional arms control in the context of the ongoing Arab Spring with its ramifications for Arab regional politics and provides a new perspective on arms control in the Middle East This volume enriches the ongoing discourse which to date has been dominated by mainly Western perspectives The Emerging Euro-Mediterranean System Dimitris Xenakis, Dimitris N. Chrysoschoou, 2001 Focusing on the principal challenges facing the Euro Mediterranean partnership since the signing of the Barcelona Declaration in November 1995 this study assesses past European policies towards the region Arms Control in the Middle East Emily B. Landau, 2006-08-24 This book focuses on the Middle East arms control process as it unfolded during the years 1992-1995 as part of the multilateral track of the Arab Israeli peace process initiated in Madrid October 1991

China and India Waheguru Pal Singh Sidhu, Jing Dong Yuan, 2003 The hardline view of Sino Indian relations found in the published reports of Indian and Chinese security analysts is often at considerable odds with the more tempered opinions those same analysts express in private interviews and conversations What is the reality of the increasingly important security relationship between the two countries The authors of this new study address that question in depth Sidhu and Yuan explore a range of key issues including mutual distrust and misperception perhaps the most important factor the undemarcated border the status of Tibet and Sikkim trade the tussle over various nonproliferation treaties terrorism the regional roles of the U S and Pakistan and the impact of domestic public opinion and special interests They do see a trend toward a more pragmatic approach in Beijing and New Delhi to managing differences and broadening the agenda of common interests Nevertheless they conclude significant obstacles remain to the amicable relationship necessary for regional peace and stability posing a daunting challenge to policymakers in these two rising powers Social States Alastair I. Johnston, 2008 Socialization in international relations theory Mimicking Social influence Persuasion Conclusions About Turn, Forward March with Europe Jane M. O. Sharp, 1996 Following 1990s defence cuts Britain's armed forces are stretched quite severely Successive governments have preferred buying US nuclear technology and intelligence to working with European partners The US has disengaged from Europe leaving the NATO countries with no common purpose The contributors to this volume economists and defence analysts outline how UK governments need to establish priorities within budget constraints exploring a division of labour with European partners restructure the army towards forces suitable for low intensity interventions and peace support rationalize defence production and procurement adapt the bipolar Cold War arms control regimes to the new multipolar world and redefine the requirement for an independent British nuclear capability

International Relations Theory and the Asia-Pacific G. John Ikenberry, Michael Mastanduno, 2003 What tools will international relations theorists need to understand the complex relationship among China Japan and the United States as the three powers shape the economic and political future of this crucial region Some of the best and most innovative scholars in international relations and Asian area studies gather here with the working premise that stability in the broader Asia

Pacific region is in large part a function of the behavior of and relationships among these three major powers From Adversaries to Partners? Ming-Yen Tsai, 2003-10-30 When China and Russia established a strategic partnership in 1996 both nations declared that they would further develop military cooperation in various fields Tsai examines the course of this military cooperation to reveal the nature of the military ties with the hopes of determining whether these two traditional adversaries have put aside historical legacies and mutual mistrust to create a full fledged military partnership After analyzing the motives and concerns of both powers Tsai concludes that while progress has been made in reducing military tensions in border regions the level of trust has not increased substantially The nature of these ties remains extremely fragile Among Western analysts there has been concern that a closer partnership might adversely affect U S interests in the region China and Russia have developed cooperation in certain areas such as arms transfers and military technical cooperation and these achievements have successfully reduced political tension However reciprocal threats against each other's territories and China's increasing ambitions and capacity to act as a great military power in the region could eventually become a major source of friction Based on research in both Chinese and Russian this study offers a comprehensive analysis on the development of and limits to this military cooperation Dialogue with the Mediterranean Gareth Mark

Winrow, 2002-05-03 The first examination of the importance of NATO's Mediterranean Initiative for the security and stability of the Euro Mediterranean area this book discusses the challenges risks and possible threats to NATO member states which may stem from the southern and eastern Mediterranean The Perils and Promise of Global Transparency Kristin M. Lord, 2007-06-01 Argues that increasing levels of transparency do not always change international politics for the better applied conflict prevention that involve nontraditional actors ranging from the corporate sector and NGOs to regional and multilateral economic and political organizations The volume suggests best practices for individuals within these organizations to use the array of political economic social and developmental instruments available to them Evaluating Euro-Mediterranean Relations Stephen C. Calleya, 2005-07-05 What are the prospects for the future of the Euro Mediterranean area and what relevant role can the Euro Mediterranean Partnership EMP play in the future After decades of a Mediterranean policy that was actually more focused on improving economic relations between Europe and the Mediterranean riparian states than anything else the EU launched a more comprehensive Mediterranean policy in November 1995 the so called Euro Mediterranean Partnership EMP that also embraced political and security relations and socio cultural relations As the tenth anniversary of this partnership approaches this book discusses measures that could help transform this multilateral initiative from a boundary management exercise to a process that focuses more on encouraging boundary transformation Euro Mediterranean initiatives that are in the pipeline such as the enhanced political dialogue the Charter for Peace and Stability the creation of a free trade area and justice and home affairs co operation are also discussed
