Sacred Spaces And Public Quarrels African Cultural Economic Landscapes:

Sacred Spaces and Public Quarrels Paul Tiyaambe Zeleza, Ezekiel Kalipeni, 1999 How do Africans conceive space How are places constructed and imagined How do the conceptions constructions imaginings of spaces and places affect and in turn are affected by social economic and political change These are some of the questions answered in this the first book of its kind to address systematically the themes of of space and spatiality African Cities Professor Garth Myers, 2011-04-14 In this groundbreaking book Garth Myers uses African urban concepts and experiences to speak back to theoretical and practical concerns He argues for a re visioning a seeing again and a revising of how cities in Africa are discussed and written about in both urban studies and African studies Cities in Africa are still either ignored banished to a different other lesser category of not quite cities or held up as examples of all that can go wrong with urbanism in much of the mainstream and even critical urban literature Myers instead encourages African studies and urban studies scholars across the world to engage with the vibrancy and complexity of African cities with fresh eyes Touching on a diverse range of cities across Africa from Zanzibar to Nairobi Cape Town to Mogadishu Kinshasa to Dakar the book uses the author s own research and a close reading of works by other scholars writers and artists to help illuminate what is happening in and across the region s cities

Food Insecurity in Informal Settlements in Lilongwe Malawi Emmanuel Chilanga, Liam Riley, 2017-09-26 Although there is widespread food availability in urban areas across the Global South it is not correlated with universal access to adequate amounts of nutritious foods This report is based on a household survey conducted in 2015 in six low income informal areas in Malawis capital city where three quarters of the population live in informal settlements Understanding the dimensions of household food insecurity in these neighbourhoods is critical to sustainable and inclusive growth in Lilongwe The survey findings provide a complementary perspective to the 2008 AFSUN survey conducted in Blantyre which suggested a level of food security in urban Malawi that was probably more typical of peri urban areas where many people farm Given that informal settlements house most of Malawis urban residents the Lilongwe research presents a serious public policy challenge for the countrys leaders Poverty is a profound problem in Malawis rapidly expanding cities Of particular concern is the poor quality of diets among residents of informal settlements Precarity of income reflected in the survey findings of frequent purchasing of staple foods and the need for food sellers to extend credit appears to be a key driver of food insecurity in these communities Economically inclusive growth with better prospects for stable employment and protection for informal sector workers appears to be the surest route to improved urban food security in Malawi
