Leaders and Their Followers in a Dangerous World Jerrold M. Post, 2004 Post is a pioneer in the field of political personality profiling. He may be the only psychiatrist who has specialized in the self-esteem problems of both Osama bin Laden and Saddam Hussein. The New Yorker Policy specialists and academic scholars have long agreed that for U.S. leaders to deal effectively with other actors in the international arena they need images of their adversaries. Leaders must try to see events and indeed their own behavior from the perspective of opponents. Faulty images are a source of misperceptions and miscalculations that have often led to major errors in policy, avoidable catastrophes and missed opportunities. History supplies all too many examples from the Foreword. What impels leaders to lead and followers to follow? How did Osama bin Laden, the son of a multibillionaire construction magnate in Saudi Arabia, become the world's number one terrorist? What are the psychological foundations of man's inhumanity to man, ethnic cleansing and genocide? Jerrold M. Post contends that such questions can be answered only through an understanding of the psychological foundations of leader personality and political behavior. Post was founding director of the Center for the Analysis of Personality and Political Behavior for the CIA. He developed the political personality profiles of Menachem Begin and Anwar Sadat for President Jimmy Carter's use at the Camp David talks and initiated the U.S. government's research program on the psychology of political terrorism. He was awarded the Intelligence Medal of Merit in 1979 for his leadership of the center. In this book he draws on psychological and personality theories as well as interviews with individual terrorists and those who have interacted with particular leaders to discuss a range of issues: the effects of illness and age on a leader's political behavior; narcissism and the relationship between followers and a charismatic leader; the impact of crisis-induced stress on policymakers; the mind of the terrorist with a consideration of killing in the name of God and the need for enemies; and the rise of ethnic conflict and terrorism in the post-Cold War environment. The leaders he discusses include Fidel Castro, Osama bin Laden, Saddam Hussein, Kim Jong Il, and Slobodan Milosevic.

Debriefing the President John Nixon, 2016-12-27 Debriefing the President presents an astounding candid portrait of one of our era's most notorious strongmen, John Nixon, the first man to conduct a prolonged interrogation of Hussein after his capture. Offers expert insight into the history and mind of America's most enigmatic enemy. In December 2003, after one of the largest, most aggressive manhunts in history, U.S. military forces captured Iraqi president Saddam Hussein near his hometown of Tikrit. Beset by body double rumors and false alarms during a nine-month search, the Bush administration needed positive identification of the prisoner before it could make the announcement that would rocket around the world At the time John Nixon was a senior CIA leadership analyst who had spent years studying the Iraqi dictator Called upon to make the official ID Nixon looked for telltale scars and tribal tattoos and asked Hussein a list of questions only he could answer The man was indeed Saddam Hussein but as Nixon learned in the ensuing weeks both he and America had greatly misunderstood just who Saddam Hussein really was After years of parsing Hussein s leadership from afar Nixon faithfully recounts his debriefing sessions and subsequently strips away the mythology surrounding an equally brutal and complex man His account is not an apology but a sobering examination of how preconceived ideas led Washington policymakers and the Bush White House astray Unflinching and unprecedented Debriefing the President exposes a fundamental misreading of one of the modern world s most central figures and presents a new narrative that boldly counters the received account Congressional Record United States. Congress,2004
