Museum, 1891 Toxicological Study of Pesticides in Animals T.S.S. Dikshith, 1990-12-19 This book discusses studies that have been conducted on various animal species The book reviews the effects of pesticides through changes in behavior the nature of morphological and biochemical lesions as well as the tracking of the metabolic disposition of pesticides in target sites of an organism In vitro studies provide information regarding cellular responses and biochemical lesions with pesticides Toxicological profiles of pesticides are cited using different species of animals for in vivo and in vitro studies This information should help scientists and decision makers reach conclusions regarding the toxicological effects of pesticides on humans and the environment Animals' Defender and Zoophilist , 1892 Genetics and the Behavior of Domestic Animals Anna V. Kukekova, Lyudmila N. Trut, Gregory M. Acland, 2013-04-22 Dog domestication involved long term genetic selection for behavior The genetics centered view of domestication is supported by experimental selection of farm foxes Vulpes vulpes that began in the 1950s Selection of foxes separately for tame and for aggressive behavior has yielded two strains with markedly different genetically determined behavioral phenotypes Tame strain foxes communicate with humans in a positive manner and are eager to establish human contact Foxes from aggressive strains are aggressive to humans and difficult to handle Although selected solely for behavior changes in physiology morphology and appearance with significant parallels to characteristics of the domestic dog were observed in tame strain Ongoing research is focused on identification of molecular genetic mechanisms associated with selection of foxes for behavior Identification of behavioral loci in the fox genome in the region which is homologous to the region in the dog genome that differentiates dogs from wolves lead to the hypothesis that domesticated behavior in dogs and foxes may have similar genetic bases Animals , 1888 Mammals of Africa: Volume VI Jonathan Kingdon, 2014-11-20 Mammals of Africa MoA is a series of six volumes which describes in detail every currently recognized species of African land mammal This is the first time that such extensive coverage has ever been attempted and the volumes incorporate the very latest information and detailed discussion of the morphology distribution biology and evolution including reference to fossil and molecular data of Africa's mammals With more than 1 160 species and 16 18 orders Africa has the greatest diversity and abundance of mammals in the world The reasons for this and the mechanisms behind their evolution are given special attention in the series Each volume follows the same format with detailed profiles of every species and higher taxa The series includes hundreds of colour illustrations and pencil drawings by Jonathan Kingdon highlighting the morphology and behaviour of the species concerned as well as line drawings of skulls and jaws by Jonathan Kingdon and Meredith Happold Every species also includes a detailed distribution map Edited by Jonathan
