An Imperialist Love Story Amira Jarmakani, 2015-07-31 A curious figure stalks the pages of a distinct subset of mass market romance novels aptly called desert romances Animalistic yet sensitive dark and attractive the desert prince or sheikh emanates manliness and raw sexual power In the years since September 11 2001 the sheikh character has steadily risen in popularity in romance novels even while depictions of Arab masculinity as backward and violent in nature have dominated the cultural landscape An Imperialist Love Story contributes to the broader conversation about the legacy of orientalist representations of Arabs in Western popular culture Combining close readings of novels discursive analysis of blogs and forums and interviews with authors Jarmakani explores popular investments in the war on terror by examining the collisions between fantasy and reality in desert romances Focusing on issues of security freedom and liberal multiculturalism she foregrounds the role that desire plays in contemporary formations of U S imperialism Drawing on transnational feminist theory and cultural studies An Imperialist Love Story offers a radical reinterpretation of the war on terror demonstrating romance to be a powerful framework for understanding how it works and how it perseveres

The War of My Generation David Kieran, 2015-08-04
Following the 9 11 attacks approximately four million Americans have turned eighteen each year and more than fifty million children have been born These members of the millennial and post millennial generation have come of age in a moment marked by increased anxiety about terrorism two protracted wars and policies that have raised questions about the United States s role abroad and at home Young people have not been shielded from the attacks or from the wars and policy debates that followed Instead they have been active participants as potential military recruits and organizers for social justice amid anti immigration policies as students in schools learning about the attacks or readers of young adult literature about wars The War of My Generation is the first essay collection to focus specifically on how the terrorist attacks and their aftermath have shaped these new generations of Americans Drawing from a variety of disciplines including anthropology sociology cultural studies and literary studies the essays cover a wide range of topics from graphic war images in the classroom to computer games designed to promote military recruitment to emails from parents in the combat zone The collection considers what cultural factors and products have shaped young people s experience of the 9 11 attacks the wars that have followed and their experiences as emerging citizen subjects in that moment Revealing how young people understand the War on Terror and how adults understand the way young people think The War of My Generation offers groundbreaking research on catastrophic events still fresh in our minds

Romantic Love in Cultural Contexts Victor Karandashev, 2016-12-24
This volume presents a conceptual historical anthropological and sociological review of how culture affects our experience and expression of romantic love What is romantic love and how is it different from and similar to other kinds of love How is romantic love related to sex and marriage in human history and across contemporary cultures What cultural factors mediate attraction in love These are some of the questions the volume explores through its interdisciplinary yet focused lens Much of the current research evidence suggests that love is a universal emotion experienced by a majority of people in various historical eras and in all the world s cultures Yet love displays in different ways because culture has an impact on people s conceptions of love and the ways they feel think and behave in romantic relationships This volume summarizes classical knowledge on love and culture while at the same time focusing sharply on recent studies and cutting edge research that has advanced the field Divided into three parts the volume begins by defining and analyzing the concept of romantic love and interdisciplinary approach to its study in cultural context Part II traces the origin and evolution of romantic love both in various places throughout the world and various time periods throughout history Part III presents the revolutionary expansion of romantic love ideas and practices in the late 20th and early 21st centuries in various parts of the world focusing particularly on the development of romantic love as a cultural ideal of the modern cultures Finally the book concludes by summarizing the major achievements in this field of study and predicts future development A timely and thoughtful addition to the literature Romantic Love in Cultural Contexts delivers thought provoking insights to researchers in relationship scholarship sociology anthropology and cultural studies and all those interested in the universal human concept of love Overall I find Dr Victor Karandashev is an excellent and fine scholar who has a firm grasp of both the fundamental principles of cross cultural research and of anthropology In our increasingly connected world Romantic Love in Cultural Contexts updates and adds to the descriptions and explanations of similarities and differences in romantic love across generations and cultures Romantic love encompasses the life span rather than being a phenomenon largely confined to youthful years The topic of this project concerns the deepest of our sentiments and pervades life from birth to death This book contributes to better knowledge of this phenomenon across generations Flix Neto Professor of Psychology Faculdade de Psicologia e de Ciências da Educação Universidade do Porto Portugal

Who Would Have Thought It: My Story of the American Civil War María Ruiz de Burton, 2021-05-07 This book details the struggles of a Mexican American girl born in Indian captivity Lola in an American society obsessed with class religion race and gender The first part of the book follows the central family in the years leading up to the start of the American Civil War and the attack on Fort Sumter 1857 1861 and flashbacks are meant to take the readers back further than that time line such as the kidnapping of Lola's mother in 1846 The second part chronicles the events that took place during the Civil War 1861 1864 Each chapter focuses on a particular character and is told from an omniscient point of view Who Would Have Thought It is a semi autobiographical novel written by María Ruiz de Burton and it reflects the author's ambiguous position between the small in number Californio elite and the Anglo American populace which form the majority of the United States population

Love, Poverty, and War Christopher Hitchens, 2004-11-24 I did not I wish to state become a journalist because there was no other profession that would have me I became a journalist because I did not want to rely on newspapers for information Love Poverty and War Journeys and Essays showcases America's leading polemicist's rejection of consensus and cliché whether he's reporting from abroad in Indonesia Kurdistan Iraq North Korea or Cuba or when his pen is targeted mercilessly at the likes of William Clinton Mother Theresa a fanatic a fundamentalist and a fraud the Dalai Lama Noam Chomsky Mel Gibson and Michael Bloomberg Hitchens began the nineties as a darling of the left but has become more of an unaffiliated radical whose targets include those on the left who he accuses of fudging the issue of military intervention in the Balkans Afghanistan and Iraq Yet as Hitchens shows in his reportage cultural and literary criticism and opinion essays from the last decade he has not jumped ship and joined the right but is faithful to the internationalist contrarian and democratic ideals that have always informed his work

Uncertain Ground Phil Klay, 2022-05-17 From the National Book Award winning author of Redeployment and Missionaries an astonishing fever graph of the effects of twenty years of war in a brutally divided America When Phil Klay left the Marines a decade ago after serving as an officer in Iraq he found himself a part of the community of veterans who have no choice but to grapple with the meaning of their wartime experiences for themselves and for the country American identity has always been bound up in war from the revolutionary war of our founding to the civil war that ended slavery to the two world wars that launched America as a superpower What did the current wars say about who we are as a country and how should we respond as citizens Unlike in previous eras of war relatively few Americans have had to do any real grappling with the endless invisible conflicts of the post 9/11 world in fact increasingly few people are even aware they are still going on. It is as if these wars are a dark star with a strong gravitational force that draws a relatively small number of soldiers and their families into its orbit while remaining inconspicuous to most other Americans. In the meantime the consequences of American military action abroad may be out of sight and out of mind but they are very real indeed. This chasm between the military and the civilian in American life and the moral blind spot it has created is one of the great themes of Uncertain Ground. Phil Klay's powerful series of reckonings with some of our country's thorniest concerns written in essay form over the past ten years. In the name of what do we ask young Americans to kill and to die. In the name of what does this country hang together. As we see at every turn in these pages those two questions have a great deal to do with each another and how we answer them will go a long way toward deciding where our troubled country goes from here. Tatler, 1914

Dust That Never Settles Amir Moosavi, 2025-06-10. Lasting from September 1980 to August 1988 the Iran Iraq War was the longest conventional war fought between two states in the twentieth century. It marked a period that began just after a revolutionary government in Iran became an Islamic Republic and Saddam Hussein consolidated power in Iraq. It ended with both wartime governments still in power, borders unchanged yet hundreds of thousands of people dead. Neither side emerged as a clear victor but both sides would eventually claim victory in some form. Dust That Never Settles considers how Iraqi and Iranian writers have wrestled with representing the Iran Iraq War and its legacy from wartime to the present. It demonstrates how writers from both countries have transformed once militarized, officially sanctioned war literatures into literatures of mourning and eventually into vehicles of protest that presented powerful counternarratives to the official state narratives. In writing the first comparative study of the literary output of this war, Amir Moosavi presents a new paradigm for the study of modern Middle Eastern literatures. He brings Persian and Arabic fiction into conversation with debates on the political importance of cultural production across the Middle East and North Africa and he puts an important new canon of works in conversation with comparative literary and cultural studies within the Global South.

Imagining Home Susan Elizabeth Farrell, 2017. War has often been seen as the domain of men and thus irrelevant to gender analysis and American writers have frequently examined war according to traditional gender expectations that boys become men by going to war and girls become women by building a home. Yet the writers discussed in this book complicate these expectations since their female characters often take part directly in war and especially since their male characters repeatedly imagine domestic spaces for themselves in the midst of war. Chapters on Hemingway and the First World War, Kurt Vonnegut and the Second World War, and Tim O'Brien and the Vietnam War place these writers in their particular historical and cultural contexts while tracing similarities in their depiction of gender relationships, imagined domestic spaces, and the representability of trauma. The book concludes by examining post-9/11 American literature probing what happens when the front lines actually come home to Americans. While much has been written about Hemingway, Vonnegut, O'Brien, and even 9/11 literature separately, this study is the first to bring them together in order to examine views about war gender and domesticity over a hundred year period It argues that 9 11 literature follows a long tradition of American writing about war in which the domestic and public realms are inextricably intertwined and in which imagined domestic spaces can provide a window into representing wartime trauma an experience often thought to be unrepresentable or incomprehensible to those who were not actually there SUSAN FARRELL is Professor of English at the College of Charleston

The Sickle's Compass: A Story of Love, War, and Alzheimer's Stephen Woodfin, 2011-04 When Battle of the Bulge veteran Woody Wilson realizes that Alzheimer's is about to ground him forever he goes on the run While the police his wife of sixty years and his only son search for him a diabolical mystery man from Woody's past tracks him down and kidnaps him He escapes his captor only to find himself facing an automatic life sentence in a criminal justice system gone haywire Thrown into events he neither controls nor understands he demonstrates in his last heroic battle the depth of his inner resolve never to fail those he loves The Sickle's Compass Stephen Woodfin's fourth novel is a fast paced legal thriller a poignant story of threadbare yet resilient love and a scathing indictment of America's refusal to make preparation for the coming tsunami Alzheimer's Disease
