Caring for Children with Complex Needs in the Community Jean Teare, 2009-01-22 Caring for the Child with Complex Needs in Community Settings provides a valuable overview of the key factors relating to caring for children with complex and continuing care needs. Despite its frequent and increasing use, complex care needs is a term without an agreed definition. This shortfall of knowledge is addressed in this book through critical discussion of evidence-based research and current health, social, and education policy. It brings together the latest knowledge into one text, providing practitioners with the crucial information needed when working with this diverse and broad group of children. Caring for the Child with Complex Needs in Community Settings explores caring for technology-dependent children who require respiratory assistance, caring for children who require home enteral tube feeds, and caring for children with complex disabilities. It looks at multi-agency care, respite care for families, social service support, and educational support of children with complex needs. Practitioners from health, social services, and education backgrounds have contributed to the chapters using case studies, while a parent of a child with complex needs has provided a personal view of caring. This accessible and practical text provides core knowledge and vital insight required for successful delivery of community care for children with complex and continuing care needs. A Practical Guide to Caring for Children and Teenagers with Attachment Difficulties Chris Taylor, 2010 It explains what attachment is, what the different patterns look like in children and young people, how early attachment experiences affect their lives, and how this understanding can help childcare workers to develop therapeutic ways of caring. An essential book for professionals such as residential carers, social workers, and foster carers. Looking After Children In Primary Care Ruth Chambers, Kirsty Liddle, 2018-12-14 Highly Commended in the 2005 BMA Medical Book Competition. The Children's National Service Framework sets standards for children's and young people's services, outlining what support should be available to children and their parents in managing and preventing a wide range of conditions and problems. This book is a companion to the Children's NSF, enabling those that work within the NHS, social care, and education to put the NSF into practice in primary care. Contributions throughout from key professionals who were involved in the evolution of the framework help by providing guidance and expertise from the knowledge and background material gained throughout its development. The authors expand on the vision, themes, and goals published within the NSF and make recommendations for the ways that best practice can be implemented, particularly for children's healthcare throughout the UK and anywhere in the Western world. General practitioners, child health specialists, community nurses, and anyone with an interest in or responsibility for the care of children in primary care and the interface with social care and education will find this book invaluable reading. Camberwell Assessment of Need for Adults with Developmental and Intellectual Disabilities Kiriakos Xenitidis, Mike Slade, Graham Thornicroft, Nick Bouras, 2021-03-04 Modernises the CANDID, the widely used needs assessment tool for adults with intellectual disabilities and mental health problems. Understanding family and friends care: the training of future and imminent changes of case studies of children's lives. It will be essential reading for modules on comparative education and international perspectives but will also form a foundation for all modules involving policy and provision on Early Years Education, Early Childhood or Childhood Studies courses. Practitioners undertaking CPD modules or foundation degrees and international students looking for comparative data will also find the book useful.

Helping Students with Learning Difficulties David W. Chan, 1998. How can we usefully understand the developments of special education in Hong Kong? What lessons can we learn from the developments and provisions of special education services in other societies such as the United Kingdom, Taiwan and mainland China? What forms of educational or instructional practice can we envision as capable of offering new possibilities for helping Hong Kong students with learning difficulties? This book addresses all these and a host of other questions. In his extensive treatment of the topic, David W. Chan covers the role of special education in Hong Kong today and contrasts it with special education systems in the United Kingdom and mainland China. Finally, he devotes his attention to exploring the perspectives of students and teachers to learning difficulties and the issues and means of intervention in helping students with learning difficulties.

This book has resulted from the author's awareness of the difficulties that professionals and parents face in accepting the sexuality of the people with learning disabilities with whom they live and work. It has been written at a time when discussion of such difficulties and awareness of the prevalence of the sexual abuse of people with learning disabilities is becoming more and more common. Though they are difficult and distasteful at times, this analysis is stimulating, provocative and shocking.

Little Buddhas Vanessa R. Sasson, 2013. Consideration of children in the academic field of Religious Studies is taking root, but Buddhist Studies has yet to take notice. Little Buddhas brings together a wide range of scholarship and expertise to address the question of what role children have played in Buddhist literature in particular historical contexts and what role they continue to play in specific Buddhist contexts today. The volume is divided into two parts: one addressing the representation of children in Buddhist texts, the other children and childhoods in Buddhist cultures around the world. The ground-breaking Recent renewed attention to them makes this collection a timely one. The contributions, representing some of the most exciting recent work, address many fundamental research questions: What, beside the canonical constructions, might be subject to raising or control analyses? What constructions traditionally treated as raising or control might not actually be so? What classes of control must be recognized? How do tense, agreement or clausal completeness figure in their distribution? The chapters address these and other relevant issues and bring new empirical data into focus.
