Markets In Historical Contexts Ideas And Politics In The Modern World:

Markets in Historical Contexts Mark Bevir, Frank Trentmann, 2004-02-12 Markets in Historical Contexts is the result of a dialogue between historians and social scientists thinking about markets in modern society How should we approach markets after the collapse of Marxism What alternative ways of thinking about markets can we recover from the past The essays in this volume set out to challenge essentialist accounts of the market Instead they suggest that markets are always embedded in distinctive traditions and practices that shape the ways in which they are conceived and the manner of their working The essays range widely over European and non European societies from the eighteenth century to the present from the great transformation to globalization Rational peasants republican economists popular conservatives guild theorists early environmentalists communitarians progressives consumers Gandhi s descendants and others are all revived The volume thus recovers alternative ways of thinking about markets many of which are neglected or marginalized in contemporary debates

Territory, Authority, Rights Saskia Sassen, 2008-07-01 Where does the nation state end and globalization begin In Territory Authority Rights one of the world's leading authorities on globalization shows how the national state made today's global era possible Saskia Sassen argues that even while globalization is best understood as denationalization it continues to be shaped channeled and enabled by institutions and networks originally developed with nations in mind such as the rule of law and respect for private authority This process of state making produced some of the capabilities enabling the global era The difference is that these capabilities have become part of new organizing logics actors other than nation states deploy them for new purposes Sassen builds her case by examining how three components of any society in any age territory authority and rights have changed in themselves and in their interrelationships across three major historical assemblages the medieval the national and the global The book consists of three parts The first Assembling the National traces the emergence of territoriality in the Middle Ages and considers monarchical divinity as a precursor to sovereign secular authority The second part Disassembling the National analyzes economic legal technological and political conditions and projects that are shaping new organizing logics The third part Assemblages of a Global Digital Age examines particular intersections of the new digital technologies with territory authority and rights Sweeping in scope rich in detail and highly readable Territory Authority Rights is a definitive new statement on globalization that will resonate throughout the social sciences

Heroes and happy endings Christine Grandy,2016-05-16 This is a highly anticipated examination of the popular film and fiction consumed by Britons in the 1920s and 1930s Departing from a prevailing emphasis on popular culture as escapist Christine Grandy offers a fresh perspective by noting the enduring importance of class and gender divisions in the narratives read and watched by the working and middle classes between the wars This compelling study ties contemporary concerns about ex soldiers profiteers and working and voting women to the heroes villains and love interests that dominated a range of films and novels Heroes and happy endings further considers the state s role in shaping the content of popular narratives through censorship An important and highly readable work for scholars and students interested in cultural and social history as well as media and film studies this book is sure to shift our understanding of the role of mass culture in the 1920s and 1930s
