Schools of Our Own Worth Kamili Hayes,2019-12-15 Winner 2020 American Educational Studies Association Critics Choice Award As battles over school desegregation helped define a generation of civil rights activism in the United States a less heralded yet equally important movement emerged in Chicago Following World War II an unprecedented number of African Americans looked beyond the issue of racial integration by creating their own schools This golden age of private education gave African Americans unparalleled autonomy to avoid discriminatory public schools and to teach their children in the best ways they saw fit In Schools of Our Own Worth Kamili Hayes recounts how a diverse contingent of educators nuns and political activists embraced institution building as the most effective means to attain quality education Schools of Our Own makes a fascinating addition to scholarly debates about education segregation African American history and Chicago still relevant in contemporary discussions about the fate of American public schooling

Exciting Classrooms Frank Thoms,2015-12-08 Frank Thoms writes with passion to invite principals and teachers to make changes that will allow all students to succeed In this book he urges them to reconsider traditional practices in light of today s media driven culture and digitally wired students Exciting Classrooms is sensitive to the challenges schools face and is relentless in offering strategies to meet these challenges Schools must do better Rather than focus on improving test scores this book advocates that teachers teach to a child s whole symphony not only to one note If students only learn to succeed on bubble tests they will not have opportunities to discover their true potential Thoms sees the teaching process as a joint venture between teacher and student where the teacher brings learning to the student and at the same time brings the student to the learning

This process demands at least as much listening as talking a new habit that teachers and principals need to learn
