gerontology As such it is an ideal resource for students and lecturers in the social and behavioural sciences as well as for students and practitioners in health and social care Unmasking age Bill Bytheway,2011-06-29 What is age A simple question but not that easy to answer Unmasking Age addresses it using data from a series of research projects relating to later life This is supplemented by material from a range of other sources including diaries and fiction Drawing on a long career in social research Bill Bytheway critically examines various methods and discusses ways of uncovering the realities of age

Carers' Stories Gill Constable,2014-07-08 It is estimated that 750 000 people are living with dementia in the UK and 500 000 partners family members and friends are involved in caring for someone with dementia at a value of 6 billion a year if care was provided by health and social care services Department of Health 2009 This book is about hearing the stories of six carers half the carers identified as lesbian or gay The findings were illuminating as the carers did not experience the person with dementia as a burden but rather found contact with health and social care services to be burdensome due to the fragmentation of services an absence of knowledge about carers entitlements and care services seeing the dementia first rather than the person Positive aspects in the relationships between the carers and the cared for endured This book is relevant to anyone who supports a person with dementia in a paid or unpaid capacity or has a role in the provision or commissioning of services and wants to understand better the policy context and most importantly the strategies that support people with dementia to maintain a sense of identity and wellbeing

Ageism Bill Bytheway,1994-12-16 Ageism has appeared in the media increasingly over the last twenty years What is it How are we affected How does it relate to services for older people This book builds bridges between the wider age conscious culture within which people live their lives and the world of the caring professions In the first part the literature on age prejudice and ageism is reviewed and set in a historical context A wide range of settings in which ageism is clearly apparent are considered and then in the third part the author identifies a series of issues that are basic in determining a theory of ageism The book is written in a style intended to engage the reader s active involvement how does ageism relate to the beliefs the reader might have about older generations the ageing process and personal fears of the future To what extent is chronological age used in social control The book discusses these issues not just in relation to discrimination against the elderly but right across the life course The book is referenced to readily available material such as newspapers and biographies includes case studies to ensure that it relates to familiar everyday aspects of age includes illustrations examples of ageism in advertizing etc

Realising Participation Kathryn Roberts,Tom Chapman,2017-10-05 This title was first published in 2001 During the last twenty years government rhetoric in the UK has increasingly advocated that statutory health and social care services should regard and treat recipients as consumers in the same way as companies and organizations in the private sector This involves a considerable cultural change on the part of both service providers and their clients and this timely study explores the extent to which such a cultural change is actually taking place in British society The utilization of welfare services by a sample of people aged 70 and above on discharge from inpatient care and in a short period afterwards is examined as a critical testbed for key components of consumerism including participation representation access choice information and redress The book explores not only the extent to which opportunities are being provided for users to play an active role in their care but also their degree of willingness to assume such a role By investigating the experiences of clients from a generation which might be considered relatively resistant to a more active participation in health and social care the study offers an important insight into the extent to which a real social transformation is indeed taking place in the British welfare services

The Social Context of Health and Health Work Linda J. Jones, 1994-07-19 The Social Context of Health and Health Work breaks new ground by linking together sociology of health and social policy perspectives Linda Jones argues that health and health work cannot be understood in isolation Patterns of disease illness treatment and provision are crucially influenced by class race gender age and disability Conflicts over health policies reflect fundamental debates about the purpose of welfare The writer draws on her specialist knowledge of developing and teaching nursing and health studies courses and on her recent experience of writing distance learning materials to create a book which encourages critical thinking and supports study

Teaching and Learning in Later Life Frank Glendenning, 2018-01-17 This title was first published in 2000 This collection of papers examines the development of education for older adults against the background of an ageing population and the challenge of lengthening life expectancy It brings together contributions from the UK and Canada The book analyzes the current situation reviews trends and perspectives and discusses educational gerontology and its relationship to older adults in the approach to the 21st century There is a call for recognition of the status of older people in education on the basis of social justice using the notions of equal opportunity access to democratic participation respect for persons and the status of equal citizenship There is also recognition of the need to empower older adults by facilitating a sense of autonomy and self determination Educational gerontology is examined in the context of critical theory and social gerontology raising a number of questions necessary to the understanding of critical educational gerontology The book seeks to promote a positive attitude to ageing and concludes by drawing out implications for the future The Oral History Reader Robert Perks,Alistair Thomson,1998 Arranged in five thematic parts The Oral History Reader covers key debates in the post war development of oral history
