Spatial Framework and Economic Development Shri Kamal Sharma, 2000 Interrelationship between spatial structure and scenario of development is the focal theme of this volume Attributes of the environment man his culture and society and their interaction shape the spatial structure which ultimately determine the pace of development Unless transferential approach of resource exploitation is not changed to transformational one it is difficult to reduce the glaring disparity in development Transformational approach is people oriented and nature oriented development concept in which social justice welfare quality of life and environmental protection are kept at par with the economic growth

Oil and Development in Ghana Nathan Andrews, Pius Siakwah, 2020-11-09 This book gives a comprehensive overview of Ghana's hydrocarbon economy using actor network and assemblage theories to contest the methodological nationalism of mainstream accounts of the resource curse in resource rich countries Drawing upon recent field research focused on Ghana's oil and gas sector and utilizing the theoretical framework of actor network theory the authors contend that there is an assemblage of political economic social and environmental networks processes actions actors and structures of power that coalesce to determine the extent to which the country's hydrocarbon resources could be regarded as a curse or blessing This framing facilitates a better understanding of the variety and duality of local and global forces and power structures at play in Ghana's growing hydrocarbon industry Giving a nuanced and multi perspectival analysis of the factors that underlie oil engendered development in Ghana this book will be of interest to students and scholars of African political economy development and the politics of resource extraction

Resource Peripheries in the Global Economy Felipe Irarrázaval, Martín Arias-Loyola, 2021-10-11 This book discusses the conditions that underpin configuration of specific places as resource peripheries and the consequences that such a socio spatial formation involves for those places The book thereby provides an interdisciplinary approach underpinned by economic geography political ecology resource geography development studies and political geography It also discusses the different technological political and economic changes that make the ongoing production of resource peripheries a distinctive socio spatial formation under the global economy Through a global and interdisciplinary perspective that uncovers ongoing political processes socio economic changes and socio ecological dynamics at resource peripheries this book argues that it is critical to take a more profound appraisal about the socio spatial processes behind the contemporary way in which capitalism is appropriating and transforming nature

A Resource-Based Habitat View for Conservation Roger L. H. Dennis,2012-04-10 Winner of the Marsh Book of the Year Award 2012 by theBritish Ecological Society In A Resource Based Habitat View for Conservation RogerDennis introduces a novel approach to the understanding of habitatsbased on resources and conditions required by organisms and theiraccess to them a quantum shift from simplistic andineffectual notions of habitats as vegetation units or biotopes Indrawing attention to what organisms actually use and need inlandscapes it focuses on resource composition structure andconnectedness all of which describe habitat quality and underpinlandscape heterogeneity This contrasts with the current bipolarview of landscapes made up of habitat patches and empty matrix but illustrates how such a metapopulation approach of isolated patchworks can grow by adopting the new habitat viewpoint. The book explores principles underlying this new definition of habitat and the impact of habitat components on populations, species distributions, geographical ranges and range changes with a view to conserving resources in landscapes for whole communities. It does this using the example of butterflies, the most alluring of insects, flagship organisms and key indicators of environmental health in the British Isles where they have been studied most intensively. The book forms essential reading for students, researchers and practitioners in ecology and conservation, particularly those concerned with managing sites and landscapes for wildlife.

Resources and Planning for Economic Development Archana Bhargava, 1991. The inter relationship between man, resources and development is the point of discussion and elaboration in the present volume. In the wake of integrated rural regional development, it is imperative to envisage development as socio-economic change for betterment of masses involving local resources and incorporating interest. Such a structural change in orientation of planning requires resource evaluation and allocation on microscale in detail. Utilizing the contemporary techniques, evaluation of potentials, present utilization and possibilities of optimum utilization of resources of a relatively less developed region, i.e. Sagar Division of Madhya Pradesh, is attempted. This division provides an example of how only basic attributes of resources are taken care of, ignoring the combinational ones in the existing system of spatial organisation developed under top-down planning. The widening disparity can be minimized by planning on micro level. A comparatively new approach of identification of planning units incorporating characteristics of both formal and functional regions has been attempted. As such, the present volume can serve as a model for resource-based development planning of depressed regions.

Handbook on the Changing Geographies of the State Sami Moisi, Natalie Koch, Andrew E.G. Jonas, Christopher Lizotte, 2020-10-30. This authoritative Handbook presents a comprehensive analysis of the spatial transformation of the state, a pivotal process of globalization. It explores the state as an ongoing project that is always changing, illuminating the new spaces of geopolitics that arise from these political, social, cultural and environmental negotiations.
