Conserving Biodiversity in East African Forests W.D. Newmark, 2013-04-17 Tanzania is one of the most biologically diverse nations in the world Traveling from west to east across Tanzania one encounters an incredible array of ecosystems and species Beginning at Lakes Victoria Tanganyika and Nyasa that form much of the western boundary of Tanzania one finds the most diverse and some of the most spectacular concentrations of endemic fish in any of the world's lakes. Moving further inland from the lakes one meets the woodlands and plains of Serengeti, Ngorongoro, Tarangire and Lake Manyara. The assemblages and movements of large mammals in these protected areas are unparalleled worldwide. Traveling yet further to the east one comes to Mount Kilimanjaro, the highest mountain in Africa. Mount Kilimanjaro is of sufficient height to not only contain seven major vegetation zones but also maintain permanent glaciers. Finally, shortly before arriving at the Indian Ocean one encounters the Eastern Arc Mountains, a series of isolated and geologically ancient mountains which, due to their height and proximity to the Indian Ocean, intercept sufficient precipitation to support in many areas moist tropical forest. The Eastern Arc Mountains are among the richest sites biologically in all of Africa and harbor unusually high concentrations of endemic species, species whose geographic distribution is restricted to these mountains. Unfortunately, much of Tanzania's biodiversity is threatened by habitat alteration, destruction, and exploitation. The Eastern Arc forests face some of the most severe threats to any of Tanzania's biologically unique sites.

Human-Environment Interactions Eduardo S.

Brondízio, Emilio F. Moran, 2012-11-15 Drawing on research from eleven countries across four continents, the 16 chapters in the volume bring perspectives from various specialties in anthropology and human ecology, institutional analysis, historical and political ecology, geography, archaeology, and land change sciences. The four sections of the volume reflect complementary approaches to HEI: health and adaptation approaches, land change and landscape management approaches, institutional and political ecology approaches, and historical and archaeological approaches.

Coordinating Research and Management to Enhance Protected Areas David Harmon, 1994

Wildlife Review, 1986 Vegetation Monitoring Caryl L. Elzinga, 1997 Approaches to Scaling of Trace Gas Fluxes in Ecosystems A.F. Bouwman, 1999-02-23 This excellent book covers techniques used for extrapolating measurements of trace gas fluxes and factors regulating the production, consumption, and exchange of trace gases in terrestrial and aquatic environments. It provides a comprehensive summary of all aspects of scaling, from flux measurement techniques, geographic data modelling, use of tracers and isotopes, inverse modelling, and satellite-borne atmospheric observations. An interesting feature of the book is the fact that both fluxes from terrestrial and aquatic marine sources are discussed, along with the uncertainties in estimates of trace gas fluxes at different scales, including point, field, landscape, regional, and global scale. As well as reviewing the state of the art in the field of scaling of fluxes of greenhouse gases, ozone, and aerosol, and their precursors and acidifying compounds, the emphasis of this volume is on identification of gaps in knowledge, finding solutions, and determination of future research directions.
