Transnational Capital and Class Fractions Bob Jessop, Henk Overbeek, 2018-08-14. Emerging in the late 1970s, the Amsterdam School's (AS) most distinctive contribution to international political economy was the systematic incorporation of the Marxian concept of capital fractions into the study of international politics. Contending that politics in advanced capitalist countries takes place in a fundamentally transnationalized space in which the distinction between domestic and international has blurred, it shows how in this space politics is structured by competing comprehensive concepts of control. Presenting a concise and instructive introduction to the origins, development, and significance of this distinct approach, this book provides a unique overview of the School's contemporary significance for the field. Offering a new generation of critical scholars the opportunity to become acquainted at first hand with some of the contributions that have shaped the work of the AS, the contributions present critical commentaries discussing the merits and shortcomings of the AS from a variety of perspectives and undertake a self-critical evaluation of the current place and value of the AS framework in the broader landscape of approaches to the study of contemporary capitalism. Written for scholars and students alike, it will be of interest to those working in international political economy, international relations, and political science, political sociology, European studies, and branches of academic economics such as regulation theory and institutional economics.
