Rethinking Multiculturalism Political Theory And Cultural Diversity:

Rethinking Multiculturalism Bhikhu C. Parekh, 2002 Bhikhu Parekh argues for a pluralist perspective on cultural diversity. Writing from both within the liberal tradition and outside of it as a critic he challenges what he calls the moral monism of much of traditional moral philosophy including contemporary liberalism its tendency to assert that only one way of life or set of values is worthwhile and to dismiss the rest as misguided or false. He defends his pluralist perspective both at the level of theory and in subtle nuanced analyses of recent controversies. Thus he offers careful and clear accounts of why cultural differences should be respected and publicly affirmed why the separation of church and state cannot be used to justify the separation of religion and politics and why the initial critique of Salman Rushdie before a Fatwa threatened his life deserved more serious attention than it received. Rejecting naturalism which posits that humans have a relatively fixed nature and that culture is an incidental and culturalism which posits that they are socially and culturally constructed with only a minimal set of features in common he argues for a dialogic interplay between human commonalities and cultural differences. This will allow Parekh argues genuinely balanced and thoughtful compromises on even the most controversial cultural issues in the new multicultural world in which we live.
