DAY AND NIGHT

We live on planet Earth. Since childhood we all have experienced day and night. Have you ever thought, why does day and night occur? During daytime sun gives us light and keeps us warm. Plants use sunlight to make their food. But where does the Sun go at night? What if our Sun never returns the next day? At night we can see all the stars and the moon. But where are all the stars in day time? In daytime there is light, so we do our work and at night when there is dark we all sleep. Now that some crazy humans have invented light bulbs, we can do our work at night too.

Our Earth is one of several planets that orbit the Sun. Earth is a spherical rock and the Sun is a nearby star which radiates light and heat. Earth is not still. It rotates about its axis once every 24 hours. We call this 24 hours as "one day". Day and night are due to the Earth's rotation on its axis. When Earth rotates, the side that faces the Sun receives light and has day. The side facing away from the Sun has night.

Sun appears at different positions at different times of day. In morning it's low in the sky. At noon it's overhead. And in the evening Sun sinks down below the horizon. Why does the Sun move so much? The Sun does not really move through the sky. In reality, the Earth is moving. As our Earth spins around, the Sun appears to move across the sky.

In the night we can see lots of stars, but where are they in daytime? All the stars are always in the sky, but in the day we cannot see them. Because in daytime, Sun is in the sky. And Sun is so bright that our eyes can't detect the light of other stars.

All planets don't take 24 hours to complete one rotation. So different planets have different length of days.

Did you know that length of day and night changes throughout the year? Have you noticed that in summer, days are longer and it gets dark much earlier in winter?
