Martin Luther's 95 Theses Martin Luther, 2014-03-05 The Ninety Five Theses were written by Martin Luther in 1517 and are widely regarded as the initial catalyst for the Protestant Reformation The disputation protests against clerical abuses especially the sale of indulgences The background to Luther's Ninety Five Theses centers on practices within the Catholic Church regarding baptism and absolution Significantly the Theses reject the validity of indulgences remissions of temporal punishment due for sins which have already been forgiven They also view with great cynicism the practice of indulgences being sold and thus the penance for sin representing a financial transaction rather than genuine contrition Luther argues that the sale of indulgences was a gross violation of the original intention of confession and penance and that Christians were being falsely told that they could find absolution through the purchase of indulgences Luther objected to a saying attributed to Johann Tetzel that As soon as the coin in the

coffer rings the soul from purgatory springs He insisted that since forgiveness was God's alone to grant those who claimed that indulgences absolved buyers from all punishments and granted them salvation were in error Christians he said must not slacken in following Christ on account of such false assurances Martin Luther's 95 Theses Martin Luther, Kurt Aland, 1967 Did Martin Luther wield his hammer on the Wittenberg church door on October 31 1517 Did he even post the Ninety five Theses at all This collection of documents sheds light on the debate surrounding Luther's actions and the timing of his writing and his request for a disputation on the indulgence issue The primary documents in this book include the theses their companion sermon A Sermon on Indulgence and Grace 1518 a chronological arrangement of letters pertinent to the theses and selections from Luther's Table Talk that address the Ninety five Theses A final section contains Luther's recollections which offer today's reader the reformer's own views of the Reformation and the Ninety five Theses Disputation on the Power of Indulgences Martin Luther, 2018-04-02 The Ninety five Theses or Disputation on the Power of Indulgences are a list of propositions for an academic disputation written in 1517 by Martin Luther professor of moral theology at the University of Wittenberg Germany that started the Reformation a schism in the Catholic Church which profoundly changed Europe They advance Luther's positions against what he saw as the abuse of the practice of clergy selling plenary indulgences which were certificates believed to reduce the temporal punishment for sins committed by the purchasers or their loved ones in purgatory In the Theses Luther claimed that the repentance required by Christ in order for sins to be forgiven involves inner spiritual repentance rather than merely external sacramental confession He argued that indulgences led Christians to avoid true repentance and sorrow for sin believing that they could forgo it by purchasing an indulgence

The Ninety-Five Theses and Other Writings Martin Luther, 2017-09-26 For the 500th anniversary of the Reformation a new translation of Martin

Luther's most famous works by leading Luther scholar and pastor William Russell. This volume contains selections from Martin Luther's most evocative and provocative writings freshly translated for the 21st century. These documents, which span the Reformer's literary career, point to the enduring and flexible character of his central ideas. As Luther's reform proposals emerged, they coalesced around some basic priorities which he delivered to wide-ranging audiences: writing for children, preaching in congregations, formulating academic treatises, penning letters to family and friends, countering critics, summarizing Biblical books, crafting confessions of faith, and more. This book demonstrates that range and provides entry points for non-specialists and specialists alike into the thought and life of the epoch-defining, fascinating, and controversial Martin Luther. With attention to the breadth of his literary output, it draws from his letters, sermons, popular writings, and formal theological works. This breadth allows readers to encounter Luther: the man, the sinner, and the saint; the public activist and the private counselor; the theologian and the pastor. These writings possess a practical accessibility as Luther does not write only for specialists and church officials but he applies his chief insights to the real-life issues that faced his rather wide variety of audiences.

95 Theses Martin Luther, 2020-08-11. The sixteenth-century document that changed the course of Christianity. Monk and theology professor Martin Luther found himself in disagreement with the Roman Catholic Church on the subject of indulgences: certificates sold by the Church that promised to spare their owners from punishment for their sins. With his 95 Theses, Luther proposed a debate on the subject but ultimately he was excommunicated and the Protestant Reformation began. This is both a religious document and a historical one: a turning point that marked a challenge to papal authority, set off political conflicts and bloody war in Europe, and led to the remarkable variety of Christian denominations and sects that exist in the world today. To combat abuses in the church of his day, the young German monk drafted nearly a hundred propositions for public debate. Martin Luther posted these theses on the church door in Wittenberg, an action that helped to give birth to the Reformation. Nearly everyone has heard of the Ninety-Five Theses. Editor Stephen J. Nichols has written an introduction and explanatory notes located on facing pages. From publisher's description. Martin Luther's Debate to Clarify the Value of Indulgences was a kind of manifesto that criticized Catholic theology. In his Theses, Luther argued that the prevailing religious doctrine of the day destroyed faith. The hammering of this 1517 document to the door of the Wittenberg church marks the start of the Reformation and the history of Protestantism. Due to the conflicts surrounding the ideas presented in his Theses, a wave of religious wars broke out in Western Europe.

Martin Luther's Ninety-Five Theses

Michael Horton, 2011-04-25

On October 31, 1517, Dr. Martin Luther wrote a letter to Albrecht, archbishop of Mainz and Magdenburg, and his own superior, the bishop of Brandenburg. The letter included a copy of a Disputation on Indulgences in Latin that Luther proposed for a public debate at Wittenberg University, which supporters translated into German as the Ninety-Five Theses. Although historians debate that Luther actually nailed his theses to the door of the Castle Church, he certainly posted them on the public bulletin board where events including academic debates were announced regularly. It was certainly not his intention to mock the religious and secular authorities, and he made every effort to submit his concerns to them before going public. But the Ninety-Five Theses certainly did go public and was the first major controversy to be disseminated by the printing press. Within two weeks, copies were found throughout Germany, and within two months throughout Europe. Almost five hundred years later, why do we still need Luther's Ninety-Five Theses? Because we need another reformation for precisely the same reasons that required the first one: Indulgences and other wrong practices and teaching may have changed form, but the church is ever in need of semper reformanda—to be always reforming. May God spread his Word of Truth again in our day so that our churches will once again be centers for the proclamation of the only good news in a world of spin: Salvation by grace alone, in Christ alone, through faith alone, to the glory of God alone. May the church be bold enough today to speak as Luther did almost five hundred years ago: out of love for the truth and the desire to bring it to light. This reprinting of the Disputation of Doctor Martin Luther on the Power and Efficacy of Indulgences contains a new preface by Michael S. Horton, host of the White Horse Inn national radio broadcast and editor in chief of Modern Reformation magazine.
