My Own My Countrys Time A Journalists Journey:

American Bookseller, 1983 Journey through Genocide Raffy Boudjikianian, 2018-04-21 Journalist Raffy Boudjikianian speaks with genocide survivors from Darfur and Rwanda and in eastern Turkey confronts the legacy of the Turkish government's denial of its responsibility for the Armenian genocide of 1915 an atrocity that resulted in the murder and exiling of many including the author's ancestors Political Journeys Fred Halliday, 2012-08-14 One of the great contrarians of international relations scholarship Fred Halliday was able to combine his understanding of the broad sweep of modern history with a profound knowledge of modern revolutions the Middle East and national movements This collection of Halliday's political essays written for the online journal openDemocracy between 2004 and 2009 is proof of a subtle worldview that continues to generate questions What is the relation between religion nationalism and progress Is a new international order possible When is intervention a force for progress From the big headline topics such as the Iraq War to the unexpected comparisons of Tibet and Palestine or Afghanistan and the Falklands Halliday's writings provide a perennially surprising and enlightened guide to the major issues of international politics Journeys Without a Map Marion Molteno, 2021-09-28 Award winning author Marion Molteno takes us on a magical journey of discovery into the life of a writer and her readers Forthcoming Books Rose Arny, 1984 Navigating International Academia Jill Brown, 2014-07-11 These narratives recount what it means to be a research student at an Australian university They unpack the complex pathways that have lead the authors to this place the early imaginings the attempts to achieve the dream and the challenges that come with that achievement These students bring a range of life skills and experiences to their studies and need to balance competing financial family and employment related demands on their time and attention For the international students whose voices dominate this text there are also barriers of culture language and physical and emotional dislocation Students from Vietnam Indonesia Bangladesh Iraq and Romania recount the personal and academic challenges they have faced and the ways in which they have struggled to find a way of being in academia which both accommodates their sense of self and allows them to be recognised as researchers in the international arena An Australian student adds her voice to the collection Their stories all combine the intensely personal with the academic There is the joy of finding libraries full of books of making friends with strangers of managing to be student partner and parent There is pride in the achievement of children coping with school and gratitude for the support of family and fellow students There is also developing confidence in their ability to contribute to research in the international arena and increasing authority in the ownership of their research As a collection these narratives offer insight into both the student travellers and the academic and personal journeys being taken Cover photo International academia by Erika Akerlund Hobart Australia Homelands Alfredo Corchado, 2018-06-05 From prizewinning journalist and immigration expert Alfredo Corchado comes the sweeping story of the great Mexican migration from the late 1980s to today Homelands is the story of Mexican immigration to the United States over the last three decades

Written by Alfredo Corchado one of the most prominent Mexican American journalists it is told from the perspective of four friends who first meet in a Mexican restaurant in Philadelphia in 1987 One was a radical activist another a restaurant tequila entrepreneur the third a lawyer politician and the fourth Alfredo a hungry young reporter for the Wall Street Journal Over the course of thirty years the four friends continued to meet coming together to share stories of the turning points in their lives the death of parents the births of children professional milestones stories from their families north and south of the border Using the lens of this intimate narrative of friendship the book chronicles one of modern America's most profound transformations during which Mexican Americans swelled to become our largest single minority changing the color economy and culture of America itself In 1970 the Mexican population was just 700 000 people but despite the recent decline in Mexican immigration to the United States the Mexican American population has now passed three million a result of high birth rates here in the United States In the wake of the nativist sentiment unleashed in the recent election Homelands will be a must read for policy makers activists Mexican Americans and all those wishing to truly understand the background of our ongoing immigration debate

Meaningful Journeys Alec Grant, Elizabeth Lloyd-Parkes, 2024-04-12 Meaningful Journeys is an edited collection of autoethnographies underpinned by the conceptual philosophical and etymological origins of journeying questing and traditional and modern understandings of pilgrimage The volume contains chapters on the ways in which all these concepts intersect with identity and identity transformation These range across narratives of sport adventure preferred identity curative religion revered location nostalgia grief resolution out of suitcase travels and pilgrimage journeys understood in more traditional senses The collection showcases and promotes the identity transformational quest as an important conceptual nuance of narrative autoethnography Readers will engage with the ways in which contributing authors craft their emerging selves into preferred identities which showcase personal and relational change in action This book is essential reading for students and practitioners of autoethnography and qualitative research internationally and others interested in identity transformation in narrative inquiry

Traveling to Unknown Places Lloyd S. Kramer, 2024-09-24 Traveling to Unknown Places presents a compelling incisive analysis of how French and American writers reshaped their personal and collective identities as they traveled in foreign countries after the social upheavals of the eighteenth century Atlantic revolutions Delving into the experiences of renowned figures like Flora Tristan and Margaret Fuller alongside lesser known postrevolutionary travelers this book illuminates how cross cultural encounters pushed writers to redefine their views of nationality language race slavery gender religion science and political ideologies Lloyd Kramer deftly demonstrates how unsettling journeys challenged cultural preconceptions and fostered introspective writings that transcended geographical boundaries By interweaving the perspectives of women and men whose travels led them far beyond their youthful social origins Kramer unveils a rich tapestry of evolving selfhood ambition and political consciousness across the Atlantic world Each traveler's experience was unique but long journeys connected all these nineteenth century writers with others who had traveled before and trips into unknown distant cultures also carried travelers toward previously unknown places within themselves The Publishers Weekly ,2007
