Radical Constructionism:

Comprehensive Handbook of Personality and Psychopathology, Personality and Everyday Functioning Jay C.

Thomas, Daniel L. Segal, 2006-01-03 Personality and Everyday Functioning covers the foundations of personality theory and the impact of personality on normal functioning. Leading personality researchers present chapters on major theories of personality such as psychoanalytic, developmental, behavioral, and constructivist, to name a few. The Politics of Constructionism Irving Velody, Robin Williams, 1998-07-29 This broad-ranging and clearly structured book critically overviews the many themes of social constructionism and its relevance to contemporary social and political issues. It brings together leading international contributors from across the social sciences, drawing on insights from psychology, sociology, politics, philosophy, cultural gender, and science studies. Major questions and topics explored in its critique and application of constructionist ideas include the theory and practice of scientific method, the development of social and political policy, the use of social science statistical methods, self-identity, and the politics of collective identities and technological advances in reproductive medicine. Reconsidering Social Constructionism Gale Miller, 2017-09-29 With the impact of social interactionist and ethnographic methodology, twenty-five years ago the research agenda in social problems began to shift its focus, giving rise to the Social Constructionism movement. The present volume and the related shorter text, Constructionist Controversies, review the substantial contributions made by social constructionist theorists over that period as well as recent debates about the future of the perspective. These contributions redefine the purpose and central questions of social problems theory and articulate a research program for analyzing social problems as social constructions. A generation of theorists has been trained in the constructionist perspective and has extended it through numerous analyses of diverse aspects of contemporary social life. The debates in this volume pose fundamental questions about the major assumptions of the perspective, the ways in which it is practiced, and the purposes of social problems theory. Their point of departure is Ibarra and Kitsuse's essay cutting new theoretical ground in calling for investigating vernacular resources, especially rhetorical forms, in the social problems process. Contributors are forceful proponents both within and outside of the social constructionist community who take a broad array of positions on the current state of social problems theory and on the rhetorical forms that need exploring. They also lay down the general lines for diverse and often competing programs for the future development of the constructionist agenda. Applied Qualitative Research in Psychology Joanna Brooks, Nigel

Steffe, Jerry Gale, 2012-10-12 Unique in offering a multidisciplinary perspective on key issues of alternative epistemologies in education this collection includes contributions from scholars in family therapy epistemology and mathematics science and language education These respected researchers were brought together to develop the theme of constructivism as it applies to many diversified fields This book examines key distinctions of various constructivist epistemologies comparing and contrasting the various paradigms Each section provides both keynote positions on a particular alternative paradigm as well as critical comments by respondents regarding that position Several chapters also present a synthesis of the alternative epistemological perspectives La Conversation Fracturée Clanton C.W. Dawson Jr., 2017-12-14 This project is a philosophical analysis of the dominant concepts of race that prevail within contemporary American society It is the claim of this book that four main concepts attempt to answer the question what is race The four concepts are racial essentialism race as a social construct with objective status racial nihilism and race as an existential phenomenological process Each concept fails however in providing the necessary and sufficient conditions for a satisfactory concept of race and thus the project calls for a new conceptual framework for answering the question what is race Constructivist Psychotherapy Gabriele Chiari, Maria Laura Nuzzo, 2009-09-29 Psychotherapy has undergone major changes in recent years with a variety of new approaches including cognitive behavioural therapy joining the more traditional and widespread schools of thought These new approaches all share the epistemological assumption of constructivism which states that there are alternative ways of looking at events and that we interpret events according to how we see the world Constructivist Psychotherapy reviews the constructivist trends in psychotherapy which link these new approaches allowing the reader to enter an entirely new dialogue The book traces constructivist thought elaborating on Kelly's personal construct theory and the implications for psychotherapeutic theory and practice Areas of discussion include the therapist's understanding of the client's narrative a constructivist understanding of the person psychological constructivism and constructivist trends in psychotherapy Setting constructivist psychotherapy within its therapeutic social and philosophical context and using case studies throughout the book revisits Kellian ideas and theories bringing them up to date to explore what it is to be a constructivist psychotherapist today As such this book will be of interest to all psychotherapists as well as anyone with an interest in the psychotherapeutic field

The Reality of Social Construction Dave Elder-Vass, 2012-04-23 Social construction is a central metaphor in contemporary social science yet it is used and understood in widely divergent and indeed conflicting ways by different thinkers Most commonly it is seen as radically opposed to realist social theory Dave Elder Vass argues that social scientists should be both realists and social constructionists and that coherent versions of these ways of thinking are entirely compatible with each other This book seeks to transform prevailing understandings of the relationship between realism and constructionism It offers a thorough ontological analysis of the phenomena of language discourse culture and knowledge and shows how this justifies a realist version of social constructionism In doing so however it also develops an analysis of these phenomena that is significant in its own right

Race and Epistemologies of Ignorance Shannon Sullivan, Nancy Tuana, 2012-02-01 Offering a wide variety of philosophical approaches to the neglected philosophical problem of ignorance this groundbreaking collection builds on Charles Mills s claim that racism involves an inverted epistemology an epistemology of ignorance Contributors explore how different forms of ignorance linked to race are produced and sustained and what role they play in promoting racism and white privilege They argue that the ignorance that underpins racism is not a simple gap in knowledge the accidental result of an epistemological oversight In the case of racial oppression ignorance often is actively produced for purposes of domination and exploitation But as these essays demonstrate ignorance is not simply a tool of oppression wielded by the powerful It can also be a strategy for survival an important tool for people of color to wield against white privilege and white supremacy The book concludes that understanding ignorance and the politics of such ignorance should be a key element of epistemological and social political analyses for it has the potential to reveal the role of power in the construction of what is known and provide a lens for the political values at work in knowledge practices

Ethnographic Inquiry and Lived Experience Wing-Chung Ho, 2019-01-15 Ho addresses two fundamental theoretical questions about how best to practice ethnographic inquiries to obtain qualitative experience near and shareable accounts of human living The first question is regarding the epistemology of ethnography Ho posits that writing is epistemologically prior to the researcher's fieldwork experience in the production of ethnographic knowledge. This stance is developed using the theories of hermeneutics put forward by Paul Ricoeur and Hans Georg Gadamer who both consider that once a text is produced its meaning is dissociated from the intention of the author. The second question is what is the putative object that the ethnographer writes about. Ho argues that lived experience (Erlebnis) offers such an ethnographic object. Since the lived experience that an ethnographer experiences during fieldwork cannot be studied directly, further theorizations of lived experience are necessary. Ho underscores both the non-discursivity and transcendence of lived experience in the lifeworld and the way power is clandestinely imbued in everyday life in shaping subjectivity and practice. This theorization brings together Alfred Schutz's lifeworld theory and Michel Foucault's power-knowledge nexus. The result is a general theory of experience that is pertinent for ethnographic inquiries. By addressing these two fundamental questions and offering novel angles from which to answer them, this book offers refreshed epistemological guidelines for conducting ethnographic research for scientific reasoning. More importantly, this book also provides a crucial knowledge base for comprehending the current epistemological debates inherent in the production of ethnographic knowledge and furthering discussions in the field.

Created to Learn William Yount, 2010-07 Revised and expanded second edition of William R. Yount's book showing teachers how to organize and adapt classroom instruction to fit the learning styles of their students.

Social Constructivism as Paradigm? Michaela Pfadenhauer, Hubert Knoblauch, 2018-10-25 Social constructivism is one of the most prominent theoretical approaches in the social sciences. This volume celebrates the 50th anniversary of its first formulation in Peter Berger and Luckmann's classic foundational text The Social Construction of Reality. Addressing the work's contribution to establishing social constructivism as a paradigm and discussing its potential for current questions in social theory, the contributing authors indicate the various cultural understandings and theoretical formulations that exist of social construction, its different fields of research, and the promising new directions for future research that it presents in its most recent developments. A study of the importance of a work that established a paradigm in the international sociology of knowledge, this book will appeal to scholars of sociology with interests in social theory, the history of the social sciences, and the significance of social constructivism.
