Time and History in Prehistory Stella Souvatzi, Adnan Baysal, Emma Baysal, 2018-10-26 Time and History in Prehistory explores the many processes through which time and history are conceptualized and constructed challenging the perception of prehistoric societies as ahistorical Drawing equally on contemporary theory and illustrative case studies and firmly rooted in material evidence this book rearticulates concepts of time and history questions the kind of narratives to be written about the past and underlines the fundamentally historical nature of prehistory From a range of multi disciplinary perspectives the authors of this volume address the scales at which archaeological evidence and narrative are interwoven from a single day to deep history and from a solitary pot to a complete city In doing so they argue the need for a multi scalar approach to prehistoric data that allows for the interplay between short and long term and for analytical units that encourage us to move continuously between scales The growing interest in time and history in archaeology and across a wide range of disciplines concerned with human action and the human past highlights that these are exceptionally active fields By juxtaposing varied viewpoints this volume bridges gaps in narrative finds a place for inclusive histories and makes clear the benefit of integrative and interdisciplinary approaches including different disciplines and types of data

Strategy for Chaos Colin Gray,2004-08-02 In this volume Professor Colin Gray develops and applies the theory and scholarship on the allegedly historical practice of the Revolution in Military Affairs RMA in order to improve our comprehension of how and why strategy works The author explores the RMA hypothesis both theoretically and historically The book argues that the conduct of an RMA has to be examined as a form of strategic behaviour which means that of necessity it must work as strategy works The great RMA debate of the 1990s is reviewed empathetically though sceptically by the author with every major school of thought allowed its day in court The author presents three historical RMAs as case studies for his argument those arguably revealed in the wars of the French Revolution and Napoleon in World War I and in the nuclear age The focus of his analysis is how these grand RMAs functioned strategically The conclusions that he draws from these empirical exercises are then applied to help us understand what indeed is and what is not happening with the much vaunted information technology led RMA of today

A Map of Selves N.M.L. Nathan,2022-04-28 A Map of Selves defines a concept of selfhood radically different from the Cartesian neo Humean materialist and animalist concepts which now dominate analytical philosophy of mind A self as this book defines it is an enduring substance with a quality which is its constant possession which it does not share with any other substance and which is often remembered by it as its own The author maintains that we are selves as so defined He criticises the panpsychist theory that material objects are composed of selves analogous to ours and argues further for the existence of at least one transcendent self whose activity explains both our own existence and the existence of the natural world He ends by considering whether things would be worse for us if selves as the book defines them did not exist and we were as some philosophers suppose we are just brains or sequences of mental events or hylemorphic structures or subjects which last no longer than the specious present Nathan s carefully argued and original book will be of interest to researchers in metaphysics and philosophical psychology and to their students

Handbook on Postconservative Theological Interpretation Ronald T. Michener,Mark A. Lamport,2024-10-24 Postconservative theology may be said to parallel with postliberal theology at its best Orthodox biblical but open to new insights about how to interpret Scripture But the new insights must be faithful as well as fresh Postconservative theology is not the same as progressive theology which tends to lean toward indeterminant faith expressions whereas postconservative allows for particular faith commitments and expressions but understands that the constructive task of theology is never finished Authors emphasize various interpretive theological lenses used for doing theology among various postconservative theologians rather than emphasizing the philosophical background to hermeneutical theory present in other works such as past influential thinkers including Gadamer Grondin Ricoeur Heidegger etc This resource could also function as a companion to Evangelical Theological Method Five Views 2018 This emphasis of the chapters will not be on the nuts and bolts of how to interpret but rather on the theological impulses that govern various lenses Bible cultural context etc for doing theology and the way Scripture functions with respect to the practice of interpretation

Willis,2002 According to Willis confusion about God s holiness is due to the mistake of treating transcendence and immanence as opposites and subsuming holiness almost exclusively under God s transcendence To correct this view Willis begins with the cross and resurrection where the transcending One is freely immanent to fulfill God s covenanting purposes God says Willis is not so much the wholly other as the Holy Other who confronts us as purifying love Willis looks in detail at several facets of holiness love simplicity communion beauty He shows that when we recognize beauty to be an essential aspect of holiness we can better reconsider frequently given definitions of the glory and the sovereignty of God and can better understand something of the awe filled love that this beauty inspires Finally Willis explores how the holiness of God provides the basis for the life of Christian faith and hope in today s world From publisher s description
