Technotopia Clemens Apprich, 2017-10-05 Many technologies and practices that define the Internet today date back to the 1990s such as user-generated content participatory platforms and social media Indeed many early ideas about the future of the Internet have been implemented albeit without fulfilling the envisioned political utopias By tracing back the technotopian vision Clemens Apprich develops a media genealogical perspective that helps us to better understand how digital networks have transformed over the last 30 years and therefore to think beyond the current state of our socio-technical reality This highly original book informs our understanding of new forms of media and social practices such that have become part of our everyday culture Apprich revisits a critical time when the Internet was not yet an everyday reality but when its potential was already understood and fiercely debated The historical context of net cultures provides the basis from which the author critically engages with current debates about the weal and woe of the Internet and challenges today's predominant network model Tuning in to the neo-avant-garde Inge Arteel, Lars Bernaerts, Siebe Bluijs, Pim Verhulst, 2021-07-06 Bringing together an international and diverse group of scholars Tuning in to the neo avant garde offers the first in depth study of the radio medium's significance as a site of artistic experimentation for the literary neo avant garde in the postwar period Covering radio works from the 1950s until the 2010s the collection charts how artists across the UK Europe and North America continued as well as reacted to the legacies of the historical avant garde and modernism operating within different national broadcasting contexts by placing radio in an intermedial dialogue with prose poetry theatre music and film In doing so the volume explores a wide variety of acoustic genres radio play feature electroacoustic music radiophonic poem radio opera to show that the medium deserves to occupy a more central place than it currently does in studies of literature inter media lity and the neo avant garde Radio in the Global Age David Hendy, 2013-04-24 Radio in the Global Age offers a fresh up to date and wide ranging introduction to the role of radio in contemporary society It places radio for the first time in a global context and pays special attention to the impact of the Internet digitalization and globalization on the political economy of radio It also provides a new emphasis on the links between music and radio the impact of formatting and the broader cultural roles the medium plays in constructing identities and nurturing musical tastes Individual chapters explore the changing structures of the radio industry the way programmes are produced the act of listening and the construction of audiences the different meanings attached to programmes and the cultural impact of radio across the globe David Hendy portrays a medium of extraordinary contradictions a cheap and accessible means of communication but also one increasingly dominated by rigid formats and multinational companies a highly intimate medium but one capable of building large communities of listeners scattered across huge spaces a force for nourishing regional identity but also a pervasive broadcaster of globalized music products a stimulus to the imagination but a purveyor of the banal and of the routine Drawing on recent research from as far afield as Africa Australasia and Latin America as well as from the UK and US the book aims to explore and to explain these paradoxes and in the process to offer an imaginative reworking of Marshall McLuhan's famous dictum that radio is one of the world's hot media Radio in the Global Age is an invaluable text for undergraduates and researchers in media studies communication studies journalism cultural studies and musicology It will also be of interest to practitioners and policy makers in the radio industry Music, Electronic Media and Culture Professor Simon Emmerson, 2013-01-28 Technology revolutionised the ways that music was produced in the twentieth century As that century drew to a close and a new century begins a new revolution in roles is underway The separate categories of composer performer distributor and listener are being challenged while the sounds of the world itself become available for musical use All kinds of sounds are now brought into the remit of composition enabling
