virtually no literature that has addressed the history of settlement services since the beginning of immigration to Canada. Some survey histories of Canadian Immigration have touched on elements of settlement policy but no history of services to immigrants in Canada has been published heretofore. Responding to Immigrants Settlement Needs: The Canadian Experience addresses this gap in the historiography of Canadian Immigration. From the tentative steps taken by the pre Confederation colonies to provide for the needs of arriving immigrants, often sick and destitute, through the provision of accommodation and free land to settlers of a century ago to today's multi-faceted settlement program, this book traces a fascinating history that provides an important context to today's policies and practices. It also serves to remind us that those who preceded us did indeed care for immigrants and did much to make them feel welcome in Canada. The Canadian experience in integration over the past two centuries suggests many policy-related research themes for further exploration both in Canada and in other immigrant-receiving countries.

Immigration and Settlement Harald Bauder, 2012. Immigration and Settlement: Challenges, Experiences, and Opportunities draws on a selection of papers that were presented at the international Migration and the Global City conference at Ryerson University Toronto in October of 2010. Through the use of international and Canadian perspectives, this book examines the contemporary challenges, experiences, and opportunities of immigration and settlement in global, Canadian, and Torontonians' contexts. In seventeen comprehensive chapters, this text approaches immigration and settlement from various thematic angles, including rights, state and citizenship, immigrants as labour, communities and identities, housing, and residential contexts, and emerging opportunities. Immigration and Settlement will be of interest to academics, researchers, and students, policy makers, NGOs, and settlement practitioners and activists, and community organizers.

Community cohesion in crisis? Flint, John, Robinson, David, 2008-07-23. There is an alleged crisis of cohesion in the UK manifested in debates about identity and Britishness, the breakdown of social connections along the fault lines of geography, ethnicity, faith, income, and age, and the fragile relationship between citizen and state. This book examines how these new dimensions of diversity and difference, so often debated in the national context, are emerging at the neighbourhood level. Contributors from a range of disciplinary backgrounds critically assess and go beyond the limits of contemporary policy discourses on community cohesion to explore the dynamics of diversity and cohesion within neighbourhoods and to identify new dimensions of disconnection between and within neighbourhoods. The chapters provide theoretically informed critiques of the policy responses of public, private, voluntary, and community organisations and present a wealth of new empirical research evidence about the dynamics of cohesion in UK neighbourhoods. Topics covered include new immigration, religion, and social capital.

Nations of Immigrants Gary P. Freeman, James Jupp, 1992 Immigration has profoundly shaped the national development of countries like the United States and Australia who were both founded as settler societies They have both been transformed by successive waves of immigration first from Europe and then from every other part of the world The policies that these countries have enforced regarding immigration recruitment and settlement have had as equally far reaching consequences for the oppressed and hopeful peoples of the world With the current ongoing changes in the international arena Canada Australia and the United States are still the primary countries to which most migrate Surprisingly nothing has been written to compare these countries immigration experiences and there is little evidence to exchange of government information on policies relating to the field Nations of Immigrants bridges these academic and governmental gaps with the first comparison of immigration policy in Australia and the United States The work is divided into four sections immigration regulation and control economic effects of immigration settlement issues and multiculturalism and conflict Written by scholars and professionals from both shores of the Pacific this work clearly identifies pertinent aspects in the comparison and investigates how policymakers might learn from one another This work is also essential for students and scholars to better understand the changing dynamics of the immigration history and policies of these countries

Settlement Needs of Small Newly Arrived Ethnic Groups James Jupp, Andrea McRobbie, Barry York, 1991-01-01 Prepared for the Federal Bureau of Immigration Research this report assesses the adequacy of existing services for new arrivals identifies the needs of different groups and surveys the settlement patterns of specific nationalities The authors from the Centre for Immigration and Multicultural Studies at the Australian National University provide an overview of previous studies and advance a series of policy options Includes maps a bibliography and an index
