Based on the most recent knowledge and contributions from leading researchers, the text examines coastal storms processes and characteristics, the main hazards such as overwash, inundation and flooding, erosion, structures, overtopping, and how to monitor and model storms. The authors include information on the most advanced innovations in forecasting, prediction and early warning, which serves as a foundation for accurate risk evaluation and developing adequate coastal indicators and management options. In addition, structural overtopping and damage are explained, taking into account the involved hydrodynamic and morphodynamic processes. The monitoring methods of coastal storms are analyzed based on recent results from research projects in Europe and the United States. Methods for vulnerability and risk evaluation are detailed, storm impact indicators are suggested for different hazards, and coastal management procedures are analyzed. This important resource includes comprehensive coverage of storms and associated impacts, including meteorological, coastal storm definitions and related potential consequences. A state-of-the-art reference for advanced students, professionals and researchers in the field. Chapters on monitoring methods of coastal storms, their prediction, early warning systems and modeling of consequences, explorations of methods for vulnerability and risk evaluation and suggestions for storm impact indicators for different hazards and coastal management procedures. Coastal Storms is a compilation of scientific and policy-related knowledge related to climate-related extreme events.
