situation of music and song in the Irish literary revival is then reflected and interpreted in the life and work of James Joyce and Dowling includes treatment of Joyce's short stories A Mother and The Dead and the Sirens chapter of Ulysses Dowling conducted field work with Northern Irish musicians during 2004 and 2005 and also reflects directly on his own experience performing and working with musicians and arts organizations in order to conclude with an assessment of the current state of traditional music and cultural negotiation in Northern Ireland in the second decade of the twenty first century

Leisure and the Irish in the Nineteenth Century Leeann Lane, William Murphy, 2016 It has often been argued that modern leisure was born in the period from the mid nineteenth century to the outbreak of World War One Then it has been suggested that if leisure was not invented its forms and meanings changed Despite the recent expansion of the literature on Irish popular cultures perhaps most strikingly sport the conceptions purposes and practical manifestations of leisure among the Irish during this critical period have yet to receive the attention they deserve This collection represents an attempt to address this In twelve essays that explore vibrant expressions of associational culture the emergence of new leisure spaces literary manifestations and representations of leisure the pleasures and purposes of travel and the leisure pursuits of elite women the collection offers a variety of perspectives on the volume's theme As becomes apparent in these studies all manner of activity from music to football reading to dining travel to photography dancing to dining visiting to cycling child's play to fighting and attitudes to these were shaped not just by the drive to pleasure but by ideas of class respectability improvement and social control as well as political social educational medical and religious ideologies
