activities and hence the question of when to do what is subject to fitness maximisation This volume gives a current overview of theoretical considerations and empirical findings of activity patterns in small mammals a group in which the energetic and ecological constraints are particularly severe and the diversity of activity patterns is particularly high Following a comparative ecological approach for the first time activity timing is consequently treated in terms of behavioural and evolutionary ecology providing the conceptual framework for chronoecology as a new subdiscipline within behavioural ecology An extensive Appendix gives an introduction to methods of activity modelling and to tools for statistical pattern analysis
