This beautiful book is a lavishly illustrated look at the most important atlases in history and the cartographers who made them. Atlases are books that changed the course of history. Pored over by rulers, explorers and adventurers, these books were used to build empires, wage wars, encourage diplomacy and nurture trade. Written by Philip Parker, an authority on the history of maps, this book brings these fascinating artefacts to life, offering a unique, lavishly illustrated guide to the history of these incredible books and the cartographers behind them. All key cartographic works from the last half millennium are covered, including The Theatrum Orbis Terrarum, considered the world's first atlas and produced in 1570 by the Dutch geographer Abraham Ortelius. The 17th century Klencke, one of the world's largest books that requires 6 people to carry it. The Rand McNally Atlas of 1881, still in print today, and a book that turned its makers William H. Rand and Andrew McNally into cartographic royalty. This beautiful book will engross readers with its detailed, visually stunning illustrations and fascinating story of how map making has developed throughout human history.

Railways in Devon and Cornwall in the Late 20th Century Peter J. Green, 2025-11-30. Devon and Cornwall have long been attractive destinations, not only for holidaymakers but also for railway enthusiasts. It was in Devon during a family holiday in 1959 that the author's passion for railways began. Peter started photographing railways at an early age, mainly concentrating on steam, but he made some visits to Devon in the 1970s to see the Western Class diesel hydraulics running along the coast. They were being replaced by Class 50 diesel electrics at the time. More time was spent in Devon in the 1970s and early 1980s photographing preserved railways as well as the modern scene. An Easter visit to Goodrington became a regular event for several years. The 1986 West of England resignalling scheme provided a good reason for a further series of visits to Devon to record the mechanical signal boxes, semaphore signalling and associated equipment before it all disappeared. The first of the author's many trips to Cornwall was in the summer of 1984 when he spent ten days attempting to photograph the entire Cornish railway system. Although an impossible task, the Class 37s on the china clay operations as well as all the Peaks Class 47s and 50s on the main lines ensured an enjoyable time. Here, with the help of other contributors, the author has attempted to assemble a comprehensive photographic record of the railways in the two counties in the late 20th Century.

Railways in South Wales and the Central Wales Line in the Late 20th Century Peter J. Green, 2022-12-01. In the early 1980s I began to visit South Wales on a regular basis to photograph the railway scene. At that time the collieries and steelworks were generating a lot of rail traffic with Class 37 diesels being the usual motive power. Passenger trains were in the hands of Class 47s and 37s while Peaks and Class 50s would also appear on occasion. HSTs, DMUs, Sprinters and Pacers were of course also common. As time went on, collieries closed and the coal traffic reduced, but there was always something new and interesting. Rugby Internationals at Cardiff regularly produced a number of special trains which arrived from various parts of the country, often bringing interesting motive power to the Welsh capital. The Class 37s were slowly replaced by Class 56s and later Class 60s on many duties in South Wales, but the Rhymney Valley saw Class 37 diesels working passenger trains into the twenty-first century and on

Rugby International days privately owned Class 50s were also used on occasion I also visited the Central Wales line a number of times and particularly enjoyed the time I spent at the small country stations before the semaphore signals were replaced This book contains a selection of photographs taken in the latter part of the 20th and in the very early 21st Century covering the railways of South Wales and the Welsh section of the Central Wales line A few photographs of the principal heritage railways in more recent times are also included

Rails From Shrewsbury Peter J. Green,2023-11-09 Shrewsbury station located at the junction of the lines from Chester Crewe Wolverhampton Hereford and Aberystwyth is a busy and interesting railway center for the enthusiast Many train movements are still controlled by semaphore signals operated from a number of signal boxes including the largest remaining operational mechanical signal box in the world at Severn Bridge Junction Nevertheless modernization has been gradually sweeping away much of the railway infrastructure both at Shrewsbury and in the surrounding area as it has been everywhere else This book looks at Shrewsbury itself the lines that radiate from there and the trains that ran on them in the late twentieth and the early part of the twenty first century During this time period much more general railway infrastructure and mechanical signaling was still in use and locomotive hauled trains were abundant using a variety of motive power including Classes 25 31 33 37 and 47 The various freight lines that saw traffic are also visited The railway from Newport through Hereford and Shrewsbury to Chester in particular saw regular steam hauled special trains a few of which are illustrated here Preserved railways in the area are not forgotten including the Severn Valley Railway which once ran from Sutton Bridge Junction at Shrewsbury to Hartlebury between Kidderminster and Droitwich Spa

Rail Atlas:Great Britain and Ireland. Rev.ed S. K. Baker,1996 Branch Line Britain Paul D. Shannon,2023-12-30 This book examines in words and pictures the network of British branch lines and other secondary routes that survived the mass closures of the 1960s While nearly 4 000 route miles were lost between 1963 and 1970 the cuts were less severe than they might have been Some lines were reprieved because of their social importance even though they would never pay their way in purely commercial terms They included some lengthy rural routes such as those serving the Far North of Scotland Central Wales and the Cumbrian Coast as well as some urban backwaters such as Romford to Upminster and the St Albans Abbey branch As the 1970s progressed closures became scarce but cost cutting measures included the singling of some lines as well as scaled down stations and simplified signalling Yet even today some pockets of traditional operation survive Mechanical signal boxes still control many hundreds of miles across the network in areas as diverse as West Cornwall East Lincolnshire and South West Scotland This book also celebrates several reopened and new lines ranging from the major Borders Railway project in Scotland to the Stansted Airport and Barking Riverside branches in South East England making the point that the branch line concept is far from dead

Rail Operations Viewed From South Devon Garth Pedler,2017-07-04 South Devon a thriving county with the sea estuary and moorland for recreation owes much of its success and vibrant economy to the railways that provide day return services allowing people to travel freely to and from London and the North Rail Operations Viewed From South Devon is a comprehensive exploration of the railways in and around South Devon with chapters drawing on areas across the country such as Totnes Carlisle and Bristol Embracing a wide range of topics to help the reader understand how railway engineering reached its current state this book aims to encourage discussion about the rail network as an entity Chapters include the history of the sea and cliff issues associated with Dawlish as well as how the Victorians built a congestion free rail system around Bristol with another chapter detailing the Cross Country timetables of 1925 This extensive insight into the railway also draws on the author s personal experience of undertaking a rail tour to Carlisle and back to Totnes in 1999 following the re privatisation of the rail network in comparison to a previous excursion in 1961 Illustrated throughout with dozens of detailed maps and diagrams as well as useful statistics Rail Operations Viewed From South Devon will appeal to readers who are curious about railway history and the recent management of the rail networks
