that services account for such a dominant part of economic activity it has become apparent that achieving high levels of productivity in the economy requires high levels of productivity in services This book offers a major reassessment of Britain s comparative productivity performance over the last 150 years Whereas in the mid nineteenth century Britain had higher productivity than the United States and Germany by 1990 both countries had overtaken Britain The key to achieving high productivity was the industrialisation of market services which involved both the serving of business and the provision of mass market consumer services in a more business like fashion Comparative productivity varied with the uneven spread of industrialised service sector provision across sectors Stephen Broadberry provides a quantitative overview of these trends together with a qualitative account of developments within individual sectors including shipping railways road and air transport telecommunications wholesale and retail distribution banking and finance   Policing, Race and Racism Michael Rowe,2004 Public inquiries into the racist murder of Stephen Lawrence in April of 1993 eventually led to the MacPherson Report of 1999 and charges of institutional racism in the British metropolitan police services This book engages the key issues emerging from the MacPherson Report discussing the failure of police to adequately recruit from minority ethnic communities the relationship between racism and broader aspects or police culture evaluations of subsequent training programs in community and race relations or policing diversity concerns that black people are over policed and the inadequacy of police response to racist violence Distributed in the US by ISBS Annotation 2004 Book News Inc Portland OR booknews com   Unemployment Compensation Interpretation Service ,1949   Proceedings of the Public Service Commission for the First District. Khosrokhavar,2016-01-12 The growth of Islam in Europe is reflected in the increasing numbers of Muslims in British and French prisons but authorities have responded differently to the challenges presented by Muslim prisoners in each country The findings of three years of intensive research in a variety of prisons show that British prisons facilitate and control the practice d of Islam whereas French prisons discourage it and thereby sow the seeds of extremism The policy implications of these ironic findings are examined in detail   Blacks and the Military Martin Binkin,Mark J. Eitelberg,2011-02-01 For much of the nation s history the participation of blacks in the armed forces was approximately in line with their proportion in the total population This changed during the 1970s by 1980 one of every three Army Gls and one of every five marines were black The reaction has been mixed Many Americans look with approval on the growth of black participation in military service since it often affords young blacks educational social and financial opportunities that constitute a bridge to a better life not otherwise available to them But for other Americans the opportunities are outweighed by the disproportionate imposition of the burden of defense on a segment of the population that has not enjoyed a fair share of the benefits that society confers From this perspective the likelihood that blacks would suffer at least a third and perhaps a half of the combat fatalities in the initial stages of conflict is considered immoral unethical or otherwise contrary to the precepts of democratic institutions Some also worry that military forces with such a high fraction of blacks entail risks to U S national security A socially unrepresentative force it is argued may lack the cohesion considered vital to combat effectiveness Others fear that such a force would be unreliable if it were deployed in situations that would test the allegiance of its minority members And some have even expressed concern that a large proportion of blacks may raise questions about the status of U S fighting forces as judged by the American public the nation s allies and its adversaries The authors of this book examine evidence on both sides of the issue in an effort to bring objective scrutiny to bear on questions that for many years have been loaded with emotion and subjective reaction They also discuss the implications for the military s racial composition of demographic economic and technological trends and the possible effects of returning to some form of conscription   Race and Social Equity Susan T Gooden,2015-01-28 In this compelling book the author contends that social equity specifically racial equity is a nervous area of government Over the course of history this nervousness has stifled many individuals and organizations thus leading to an inability to seriously advance the reduction of racial inequities in government The author asserts that until this nervousness is effectively managed public administration social equity efforts designed to reduce racial inequities cannot realize their full potential Chapters 2 and 8 of this book are freely available as downloadable Open Access PDFs at http www taylorfrancis com under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4 0 license   Library of Congress Subject Headings Library of Congress.
