The Promise of Mediation Robert A. Baruch

Bush, Joseph P. Folger, 2004-10-28 The award winning first edition of The Promise of Mediation published ten years ago is a landmark classic that changed the field's understanding of the theory and practice of conflict intervention That volume first articulated the transformative model of mediation which greatly humanized the vision of how the mediation process could help parties in conflict In the past decade the transformative model has proved itself and gained increasing acceptance It is now being used in such diverse arenas as workplace community family organizational and public policy conflicts among others In this new edition the authors draw on a decade of work in theory development training practice research and assessment to present a thoroughly revised and updated account of the transformative model of mediation and its practical application including a compelling description of how the field has moved toward increasing acceptance of the transformative model a new and clearer presentation of the theory and practices of transformative mediation with many concrete examples a new case study that provides a vivid picture of the model in practice with a commentary full of new information about how to use it effectively clarifications of common misconceptions about the model a vision for the future that shows how the model can coexist with other approaches and where the market for transformative mediation is emerging This volume is a foundational resource on transformative practice for both readers of the first edition and new readers including mediators facilitators lawyers administrators human resource professionals policymakers and conflict resolution researchers and educators More generally this book will strike a chord with anyone interested in humanizing our social institutions and building on a relational vision of society

Nation-building and Identity Conflicts Ariel Hernandez, 2014-07-08 Ending identity conflicts through negotiated agreements is an intractable process that is embedded complexly in the nation building process Ariel Hernandez looks on the complexity of the nation building process in the Philippines and how its social and political context constrains the achievement of a peace agreement that would withhold new challenges as the process unfolds Mediation as one of the possible modes of intervention to resolve identity conflicts is taken as the self evident instrument to end the 40 year old conflict between the Filipino society at large and the Bangsamoro The analysis confirms that mediation and other types of intervention are contributing to the intractability of identity conflicts by bringing in further complexities in the negotiation process The conceptualization of stumbling blocks may provide knowledge based resources to develop strategies to facilitate the mediation process that allows negotiating parties to cope with the complexity of the bargaining table
