Marrie, 2007-05-08 Pneumonia along with influenza is the sixth leading cause of death in adults About 4 million adults develop pneumonia each year in the US resulting in 64 million days of restricted activity 39 million days of bed confinement and 10 million days of lost work Yet the admission rates to hospital length of stay investigations antimicrobial therapy and prevention strategies vary greatly from one geographic area to the next and the scientific basis for many of our management strategies for pneumonia is weak to nonexistent There are over 100 microbial agents that can cause pneumonia and many of these especially Streptococcus pneumoniae Group A streptococcus and Staphylococcus aureus are in a state of flux in terms of changing antimicrobial resistance This book is designed to provide new information about pneumonia and identify critical research questions that will come to the fore as we enter the 21st century Community Acquired Pneumonia: Controversies and Questions, an Issue of Infectious Disease Clinics Thomas M. File Jr.,2013-03-28 Pneumonia is the leading cause of death due to infectious disease This issue of Infectious Disease Clinics guest edited by Tom File focuses on the controversies and questions surrounding community acquired pneumonia including the potential benefits of identifying biomarkers for management of CAP which could someday become a part of routine diagnostic testing for CAP the best therapies for influenza viral causes of pneumonia the most common form of the disease in children and clinical scoring tools to help predict long term outcomes The issue also discusses how to approach MRSA as a cause of CAP and how to approach the non responding patient Community-Acquired Pneumonia Antoni Torres,Rosario Menendez,2008-07-31 Community Acquired Pneumonia CAP refers to pneumonia acquired outside of hospitals or extended care facilities and is distinct from Nosocomial or hospital acquired pneumonia which is a separate disease entity It is one of the most common respiratory infections and presents one of the major health problems today with an incidence that ranges from eight to fifty cases per thousand individuals each year Mortality is still very high and yet the risk factors are very well known Many of these are related to antibiotic treatment delay in administration inadequacy of empiric antibiotics and lack of adherence to guidelines for treatment are all clearly associated with poor treatment outcomes Following a description of the epidemiology and microbial etiology of ambulatory and hospitalized CAP this book provides an in depth review of the important new advances in therapeutics including management of drug resistance to the three major classes of antibiotics used for treatment of CAP lactams macrolides and quinolones All of them have advantages and disadvantages and these are put into perspective This book highlights guideline recommendations and presents a balanced analysis to help physicians deliver the highest standard of care In addition the authors provide an insight into the 10% of patients who do not respond to antibiotics and could benefit from adjunctive therapies some still under review This volume will be welcomed by pulmonologists and all clinicians involved in managing community acquired pneumonia Infectious Diseases in Critical Care Jordi Rello,Martin H. Kollef,Emilio Díaz,Alejandro Rodríguez,2010-05-28 Infections and their complications are a very important clinical area in the intensive care unit setting Community acquired infections and nosocomial infections both contribute to the high level of disease acquisition common among critically ill patients The accurate diagnosis of nosocomial infections and the provision of appropriate therapies including antimicrobial therapy effective against the identified agents of infection have been shown to be important determinants of patient outcome Critical care practitioners are in a unique position in dealing with infectious diseases They are often the initial providers of care to seriously ill patients with infections Additionally they have a responsibility to ensure that nosocomial infections are prevented and that antimicrobial resistance is minimized by prudently employing antibiotic agents It is the editors hope that this book
