Sex and Repression in Savage Society

Bronislaw Malinowski, 2023-03-08 Sex and Repression in Savage Society is a 1927 book by anthropologist Bronislaw Malinowski. It is considered a famous critique of psychoanalysis, arguing that the Oedipus complex described by Freud is not universal. Malinowski gives a partial explanation of the role of sex in social organization through the synthesis of psychoanalysis and anthropology, considered competing academic disciplines at the time. The book is considered an important contribution to psychoanalysis, which Malinowski acknowledged was a popular craze of the day. I have never been in any sense a follower of psychoanalytic practice or an adherent of psychoanalytic theory, and now, while impatient of the exorbitant claims of psychoanalysis of its chaotic arguments and tangled terminology, I must yet acknowledge a deep sense of indebtedness to it for stimulation as well as for valuable instruction in some aspects of human psychology. The book is divided into four parts. In Part 1, The Formation of a Complex, he lays out the issues related to childhood sexuality through puberty and maternal roles. In Part 2, The Mirror of Tradition, he examines myth and taboo related to family dynamics. In Part 3, Psychoanalysis and Anthropology, he examines the rift between the two disciplines and looks at the role parricide may have as a foundation of culture. In Part 4, Instinct and Culture, he examines how humans made the transition from animalistic instincts to organized society, situating the family as the cradle of nascent culture. He describes how taboos that develop within a society must then be enforced through authority and repression. Malinowski's studies of the Trobriand Islanders challenged the Freudian proposal that psychosexual development, e.g., the Oedipus complex, was universal. He reported that in the insular matriarchal society of the Trobriand, boys are disciplined by their maternal uncles, not their fathers, and avuncular discipline. Malinowski reported that boys dreamed of feared uncles, not of beloved fathers, thus power, not sexual jealousy, is the source of Oedipal conflict in such non-Western societies. In a brief passage in his 1979 book Broca's Brain, the late science populariser Carl Sagan criticised Malinowski for thinking that he had discovered a people in the Trobriand Islands who had not worked out the connection between sexual intercourse and childbirth, arguing that it was more likely that the Islanders were simply making fun of Malinowski. Mark Mosko wrote in 2014 that further research on Trobriand people affirmed some of Malinowski's claims about their beliefs on procreation, adding that the dogmas are tied to a complicated system of belief encapsulating magic into beliefs about human and plant procreation, but he also stated that the preponderance of ethnographic evidence refutes Malinowski's notorious claims of Islanders' supposed ignorance of physiological paternity. It also shows how as a coordinated body of futurological writing the series is also revealing about the nature and practices of modern futurology itself The Cultural Construction of Sexuality Patricia Caplan, 1987 First Published in 1987

Thomas Szasz, Max Gluckman, 2017-07-12 Social anthropology defined operationally in terms of what social anthropologists have done in the last fifty years is the study and comparison of tribal societies and of small fields of social life with emphasis on the role of custom When a social anthropologist's research leads him into any field which belongs to other disciplines what line should he adopt What use may he make of the results that other scholars have already achieved Must he knowingly make naive assumptions concerning events which they have regarded as complex In each of the fascinating essays which in turn form the core of this book V W Turner's on symbols in Ndembu ritual F G Bailey's on disputes which occurred in two Orissa villages A L Epstein's on urban communities in Africa T Lupton's and S Cunnison's on the relationship between behaviour in three Manchester workshops and certain events which happened outside and W Watson's on social mobility and social class in a coalmining Scottish burgh several social anthropologists attempt to answer these questions by discussing the problems of method that they have encountered in their own recent research and in the searching discussion which sum up the results To analyze one first has to circumscribe one's field and then simplify within the area of circumscription Both circumscription and simplification may involve procedures of absorbing abridging and making naive assumptions The contributors draw attention to the attempt to distinguish between psychical facts emotions thoughts etc and psychological which we believe should apply only to statements within the science of psychology and not to be used by the former They similarly distinguish between social facts and sociological or social anthropological statements Psychological and sociological are so well established in common parlance as adjectives to categorize facts that attempts to specialize them as hopeless
