Watson,2014-09-10 Besides the groundbreaking novels and stories that brought him fame William Faulkner throughout his life wrote letters to his publisher his lovers his family and his friends In this first major study of epistolarity in Faulkner s work James G Watson examines Faulkner s personal correspondence as a unique second canon of writing separate from his literary canon with its many fictional letters but developing along parallel lines By describing the similarity of forms and conventions in Faulkner s personal and fictional correspondence Watson clearly demonstrates that Faulkner s personal experience as a writer of letters significantly shaped his imaginative work early and late Letters are always about themselves they re create a world between the sender and the receiver In this illuminating study Faulkner s personal letters are treated as a form of reflexive writing first person narratives in which Sender self consciously portrays Self to a specific Receiver likewise portrayed in the letter text This duality of actual experience and imaginative re creation measures the personal distances between the life of the writer and the written self image It reveals that letters are at once fragments of autobiography and fictions of self Such laws of letters apply equally to the letters that appear throughout Faulkner s novels and stories The twenty one letters and telegrams in The Sound and the Fury for example portray character propel plot and convey important themes of failed communication and broken identity From Soldiers Pay to his last work Faulkner s carefully lettered canon of fiction is dramatic evidence of his understanding of epistolarity and of the extent to which he adapted letters including some of his own to shape his fictional world Nineteenth-Century Choral Music Donna M. Walker,2009 This volume reveals the extent to which Britten scholarship is reaching outside the confines of Anglo American criticism The volume engages with juvenilia and other orchestral works from the 1920s and examines the broad range of influences on Britten Requiem Letters Ronald D. Whitney ,1904 At the Edges of Vision Ren van de Vall,2017-07-05 In At the Edges of Vision Ren van de Vall re examines the aesthetics of spectatorship in terms of new media art and visual culture The aesthetic experience of visual art has traditionally been described in terms of the distanced contemplation and critical interpretation of the work's form and representational content. Recent developments in installation, video, and computer art have foregrounded the bodily and affective engagement of the spectator and in retrospect throw into question the model of spectatorial distance for more traditional art forms as well. But what does this development entail for art's potential for reflective, imaginative, and experiential depth? Is art still capable of providing a critical counterpoint to the ubiquitous presence of sensational yet short-lived media imagery when it speaks to the senses rather than to the mind? In a thorough examination of examples from painting, film, installation art, and interactive video and computer art, Van de Vall argues for a tactile and affective conception of reflection linking philosophy and art. Looking at a Rembrandt self-portrait and navigating through an internet art work have in common that both types of work rely on a playful, rhythmically structured, sensuous, and embodied reflexivity for the articulation of meaning. This sensuous dimension of playful reflexivity is just as important in philosophical thought, however, as the transcendental condition for genuine, open-ended reflection. Drawing on the philosophy of Merleau-Ponty, Levinas, Lyotard, and Deleuze, on the one hand, and on new media theory, on the other, Van de Vall develops a performative phenomenology of aesthetic reflection, visuality, and visual art in order to rethink art's ethical and political relevance in present-day digital media culture.
