Colburn, 2019-09-11 A study of the material culture of Egypt during the period of Achaemenid Persian rule c 526 404 BCE Provides a clear overview of the archaeological evidence for Achaemenid Egypt including temples tombs irrigation works statues stelae seals and coins Demonstrates how different types of evidence both textual and archaeological including material of uncertain provenance can be used to address a single historical question Offers critical discussion of the dating criteria used by archaeologists for Egyptian Late Period material Elucidates strategies used by the Persians to establish and maintain control of Egypt Examines how these strategies may have affected the lives of people living in Egypt during the 27th Dynasty Creates a new explanatory model for the introduction of coinage to ancient Egypt Previous studies have characterised Achaemenid rule of Egypt either as ephemeral and weak or oppressive and harsh These characterisations however are based on the perceived lack of evidence for this period filtered through ancient and modern preconceptions about the Persians Henry Colburn challenges these views by assembling and analyzing the archaeological remains from this period including temples tombs irrigation works statues stelae sealings drinking vessels and coins By looking at the decisions made about material culture by Egyptians Persians and others it becomes possible to see both how the Persians integrated Egypt into their empire and the full range of experiences people had as a result A Military History of the

Iconic Costumes Ulla Mannering, 2016-11-30 This richly illustrated book presents a selection of the rich and varied iconographic material from the Scandinavian Late Iron Age AD 400 1050 depicting clothed human figures from an archaeological textile and clothing perspective The source material consists of five object categories gold foils gold bracteates helmet plaques jewelry and textile tapestries and comprises over 1000 different images of male and female costumes which are then systematically examined in conjunction with our present knowledge of archaeological textiles In particular the study explores the question of whether the selected images complement the archaeological clothing sources through a new analytical tool which enables us to compare and contrast the object categories in regard to material function chronology context and interpretation The tool is used to record and analyze the numerous details of the iconographic costumes and to facilitate a clear and easy description This deliberate use of explicit costume shapes enhances our interpretation and understanding of the Late Iron Age clothing tradition Thus the majority of the costumes depicted are identified in the Scandinavian archaeological textile record demonstrating that the depictions are a reliable source of research for both iconographical costume and archaeological clothing The book contributes with new information on social regional and chronological differences in clothing traditions from ca AD 400 to the Viking Age Mongol Court Dress,

Identity Formation, and Global Exchange Eiren L. Shea, 2020-02-05 The Mongol period 1206 1368 marked a major turning point of exchange culturally politically and artistically across Eurasia The wide ranging international exchange that occurred during the Mongol period is most apparent visually through the inclusion of Mongol motifs in textile paintings ceramics and metalwork among other media Eiren Shea investigates how a group of newly confederated tribes from the steppe conquered the most sophisticated societies in existence in less than a century creating a courtly idiom that permanently changed the aesthetics of China and whose echoes were felt across Central Asia the Middle East and even Europe This book will be of interest to scholars in art history fashion design and Asian studies The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial 4.0 license

War and Worship Susan Möller-Wiering, 2011-08-30 War and Worship concerns textile deposits from the bog sites of Thorsberg in Germany and Nydam Vimose and Illerup dal in Denmark All four sites are well known for containing a substantial amount of archaeological materials particularly weapons but they also contain as integral parts of the weapon deposits a smaller number of preserved textiles which nevertheless constitute outstanding assemblages With the exception of Thorsberg publications dealing particularly with textiles from weapon deposits are almost non-existent The textiles from each site are analysed then compared to one another and described as a unit characterising the particular site Comparisons are then made between the four sites with emphasis on the overall context A final chapter by Lise Røder Knudsen analyses tablet woven textiles in the deposits a textile technique used to make bands edges and borders Although the state of preservation of the textiles at the different locations varies hugely the research has extracted a large amount of information allowing conclusions on status origin function and role in the deposits to be drawn The fabrics presented here were unquestionably consecrated textiles They had been worn by the defeated foreign warriors during the battle and were considered worthy as sacrificial offerings to the gods Some individual high status textiles were perceived to have a value comparable to certain metal items Others probably the majority were used for covering and wrapping other offerings for the subsequent sacrifice All were committed to the lakes in a sacred act of remembrance to celebrate victorious battles
