Science With A Human Face:

Forensic Face Matching Markus Bindemann, 2021-01-07 In everyday life we identify faces regularly and seemingly with great ease One might assume this to be a straightforward and highly accurate task However we are poor at identifying the faces of unfamiliar people who we have never met before despite the fact that many important everyday tasks depend on this Forensic face matching requires the comparison of two face photographs of a person who is not known to the observer This seemingly simple task is critical for a wide range of security tasks such as person identification at airports and borders passport issuance and renewal and criminal identification in police investigations Despite its ubiquity face matching is highly prone to error even under conditions that are designed to maximally facilitate this task For this reason face matching has been studied extensively in Psychology with the bulk of the research conducted since 2010 Forensic face Matching provides readers with a wide ranging detailed and critical overview of facial comparison and face matching providing insights into its application efficacy and limitations in occupational settings and of current scientific knowledge of this task Library of Congress Subject Headings Library of Congress, Library of Congress. Interreligious Comparisons in Religious Studies and Theology Perry Schmidt-Leukel,Andreas Nehring,2016-07-14 Can religions be compared For decades the discipline of religious studies was based on the assumption that they can Postmodern and postcolonial reflections however raised significant doubts In social and cultural studies the investigation of the particular often took precedence over a comparative perspective Interreligious Comparisons in Religious Studies and Theology questions whether religious studies can survive if it ceases to be comparative religion Can it do justice to a globalized world if it is limited on the specific and turns a blind eye on the general While comparative approaches have come under strong pressure in religious studies they have started flourishing in Theology Comparative theology practices interfaith dialogue by means of comparative research This volume asks whether theology and religious studies are able to mutually benefit from their critical and constructive reflections Can postcolonial criticism of neutrality and objectivity in religious studies create new links with the decidedly perspectival approach of comparative theology In this collection scholars from theology and religious studies discuss the methodology of interreligious comparison in the light of recent doubts and current objections Together with the contributors Perry Schmidt Leukel and Andreas Nehring argue that after decades of critique interreligious comparison deserves to be reconsidered reconstructed and reintroduced
