The Inarticulate Renaissance Carla Mazzio,2016-01-08 The Inarticulate Renaissance explores the conceptual potential of the disabled utterance in the English literary Renaissance What might it have meant in the sixteenth century age of eloquence to speak indistinctly to mumble to oneself or to God to speak unintelligibly to a lover a teacher a court of law or to be utterly dumfounded in the face of new words persons situations and things This innovative book maps out a Renaissance otherwise eclipsed by cultural and literary critical investments in a period defined by the impact of classical humanism Reformation poetics and the flourishing of vernacular languages and literatures For Carla Mazzio the specter of the inarticulate was part of a culture grappling with the often startlingly incoherent dimensions of language practices and ideologies in the humanities religion law historiography print and vernacular speech Through a historical analysis of forms of failed utterance as they informed and were recast in sixteenth century drama her book foregrounds the inarticulate as a central subject of cultural history and dramatic innovation Playwrights from Nicholas Udall to William Shakespeare while exposing ideological fictions through which articulate and inarticulate became distinguished also transformed apparent challenges to articulate communication into occasions for cultivating new forms of expression and audition The Structures of Love James Penney,2012-04-28 Both Freud and Lacan defined the transference as the ego's last stand its final desperate attempt to keep the truth of the unconscious at bay Both also viewed the transference as a social phenomenon In The Structures of Love James Penney argues that transference is the concept with which psychoanalysis thinks through the unconscious demands that circumscribe and can sabotage our creative initiatives in the arts and politics Penney suggests a method of cultural analysis that enables us to identify the transformative potential of genuine artistic and political acts He

Unveiling Eve Tova Rosen, 2013-04-23 Selected by Choice magazine as an Outstanding Academic Title Unveiling Eve is the first feminist inquiry into the Hebrew poetry and prose forms cultivated in Muslim and Christian Spain, Italy, and Provence in the eleventh through fourteenth centuries. In the Jewish Middle Ages, writing was an exclusively male competence, and textual institutions such as the study of scripture, mysticism, philosophy, and liturgy were men's sanctuaries from which women were banished. These domains of male expertise, alongside belles lettres on which Rosen's book focuses, served as virtual laboratories for experimenting with concepts of femininity and masculinity, hetero and homosexuality, feminization and virilization, transvestism and transsexuality. Reviewing texts as varied as love lyric, love stories, marriage debates, rhetorical contests, and liturgical and moralistic pieces, Tova Rosen considers the positions and positioning of female figures and female voices within Jewish male discourse. The idolization and demonization of women present in these texts is read here against the background of scripture and rabbinic literature, as well as the traditions of chivalry and misogyny in the hosting Islamic and Christian cultures. Unveiling Eve unravels the literary evidence of a patriarchal tradition in which women are routinely rendered nonentities, often positioned as abstractions without bodies or reified as bodies without subjectivities. Without rigidly following any one school of feminist thinking, Rosen creatively employs a variety of methodologies to describe and assess the texts' presentation of male sexual politics and delineate how women and concepts of gender were manipulated, fictionalized, fantasized, and poeticized. Inaugurating a new era of critical thinking in Hebrew literature, Unveiling Eve penetrates a field of medieval literary scholarship that has until now proven impervious to feminist criticism.

Historicism, Psychoanalysis, and Early Modern Culture Carla Mazzio, Douglas Trevor, 2013-10-28 First published in 2000, Did people in early modern Europe have a concept of an inner self? Carla Mazzio and Douglas Trevor have brought together an outstanding group of literary, cultural, and history scholars to answer this intriguing question. Through a synthesis of historicism and psychoanalytic criticism, the contributors explore the complicated, nuanced, and often surprising union of history and subjectivity in Europe centuries before psychoanalytic theory. Addressing such topics as fetishes and Renaissancees, the cartographic unconscious, and the topographic imaginary, these essays move beyond the strict boundaries of historicism and psychoanalysis to carve out new histories of interiority in early modern Europe.

A Hitchcock Reader Marshall Deutelbaum, Leland Poague, 2009-02-24 This new edition of A Hitchcock Reader aims to preserve what has been so satisfying and successful in the first edition: a comprehensive anthology that may be used as a critical text in introductory or advanced film courses while also satisfying Hitchcock scholars by representing the rich variety of critical responses to the director's films. Over the years, a total of 20 of Hitchcock's films are discussed in depth; many others are considered in passing sections. Introductions by the editors contextualize the essays and the films they discuss, well-researched bibliographic references which will allow readers to broaden the scope of their study of Alfred Hitchcock.
