Gustafson,David Magnusson,2022-08-24 Originally published in 1991 this volume represents the first systematic attempt to apply a pattern approach to a comprehensive longitudinal investigation It focuses on individual differences in female career development from early adolescence through young adulthood Rather than constructing a general model of career development the authors use the interplay between theory and observation to build networks of patterns demonstrating the long term consequences for adult women s career involvement their educational levels their family commitments and their social networks Throughout their investigation the authors interpret individuals patterns as characterizing processes that underlie women s differential development They illustrate that a research strategy oriented toward pattern analysis and related methodology reveals information that is generally obscured in more traditional variable oriented designs They also argue that a pattern approach is particularly suited to the tenets of modern interactionism which provides the theoretical foundation of the study

Lifelong Influence of Sports and Physical Activity Roxana Ramona Onofrei, Marco Branco, Sorana D. Bolboaca, 2025-05-23

Physical activity and sports participation are recognized to be related to better health. Although practicing a sport or being physically active proved to have beneficial effects on health e.g. lowering the risk of chronic diseases, the trends of active involvement in such activities decreased from childhood to older age. As our understanding of human diseases, physiology, psychology and overall well-being continues to evolve, it is fundamental to study the effects of participating in sports and physical activities throughout different life stages. We invite researchers, scholars and experts to contribute their insights to our upcoming special issue Lifelong Influence of Sports and Physical Activity. Our special issue aims to explore the impact of sports and physical activity on individuals from childhood to old age. This research topic will bring together data about physical activity across the lifespan, focusing not only on the beneficial effects of physical activity on health and well-being but also on identifying factors and strategies with a positive impact on physical activity levels. We welcome original research articles, case reports, systematic reviews, meta-analyses and theoretical papers that shed light on the multidimensional aspects of sports and physical activities on health. Topics of interest include but are not limited to: Short and long-term benefits of sports and physical activity; Benefits of youth sports; Sports, physical activity and health; Physiological adaptations to regular exercise; Cognitive and psychological benefits of sports and physical activity over time; Socio-cultural influences on sustained sports and physical activity participation; The role of sports in preventing age-related health decline; Strategies for promoting physical engagement across different age groups; Challenges and barriers to maintaining an active lifestyle throughout life; Comparative studies of different sports and their varying effects on lifelong health; Advanced technologies and engagement in physical activity; Artificial intelligence (AI) and augmented reality to assist movement quality and exercise loading; Applications to support sports and physical activity engagement; Exercise-induced injury and AI support. How to Calculate Statistics

Carol Taylor Fitz-Gibbon, Lynn Lyons Morris, 1978-08-01. Abstract: Statistical methods of evaluating data are used to summarize large amounts of information into usable and meaningful numbers to provide guidelines for interpreting apparent differences of results and to determine the degree of correlation among sets of data. Instruction on the collection, handling and interpretation of data cover the administration of a measure to one or more groups: unmatched or matched groups and 2 measures made on the same group. Various methods of comparing scores include: graphs, calculating the mean, standard deviation and variance, t-test, confidence limits, Mann-Whitney U test, Chi-square test and the computer program SPSS. Selection of the appropriate technique ensures relevant results. The relationship between 2 measures on the same group can be defined in terms of the correlation coefficient r and expressed as Pearson's product moment, Spearman's rank order, rank biserial, point biserial or Phi coefficient. SPSS can be used for analysis of variance or covariance, partial correlation, multiple regression and discriminant or factor analysis. From Parents to Children John Ermisch, Markus Jantti, Timothy M.

Smeeding,2012-05-01 Does economic inequality in one generation lead to inequality of opportunity in the next In From Parents to Children an esteemed international group of scholars investigates this question using data from ten countries with differing levels of inequality The book compares whether and how parents resources transmit advantage to their children at different stages of development and sheds light on the structural differences among countries that may influence intergenerational mobility How and why is economic mobility higher in some countries than in others The contributors find that inequality in mobility relevant skills emerges early in childhood in all of the countries studied Bruce Bradbury and his coauthors focus on learning readiness among young children and show that as early as age five large disparities in cognitive and other mobility relevant skills develop between low and high income kids particularly in the United States and the United Kingdom Such disparities may be mitigated by investments in early childhood education as Christelle Dumas and Arnaud Lefranc demonstrate They find that universal pre school education in France lessens the negative effect of low parental SES and gives low income children a greater shot at social mobility Katherine Magnuson Jane Waldfogel and Elizabeth Washbrook find that income based gaps in cognitive achievement in the United States and the United Kingdom widen as children reach adolescence Robert Haveman and his coauthors show that the effect of parental income on test scores increases as children age and in both the United States and Canada having parents with a higher income better the chances that a child will enroll in college As economic inequality in the United States continues to rise the national policy conversation will not only need to address the devastating effects of rising inequality in this generation but also the potential consequences of the decline in mobility from one generation to the next Drawing on unparalleled international datasets From Parents to Children provides an important first step Measuring Up Daniel Koretz,2009-09-15 Measuring Up demystifies educational testing from MCAS to SAT to WAIS Bringing statistical terms down to earth Koretz takes readers through the most fundamental issues that arise in educational testing and shows how they apply to some of the most controversial issues in education today from high stakes testing to special education Mathematical and Statistics Anxiety: Educational, Social, Developmental and Cognitive Perspectives Kinga Morsanyi,Irene Cristina Mammarella,Denes Szűcs,Carlo Tomasetto,Caterina Primi,Erin Anne Maloney,2017-01-19 Mathematical anxiety is a feeling of tension apprehension or fear which arises when a person is faced with mathematical content The negative consequences of mathematical anxiety are well documented Students with high levels of mathematical anxiety might underperform in important test situations they tend to hold negative attitudes towards mathematics and they are likely to opt out of elective mathematics courses which also affects their career opportunities Although at the university level many students do not continue to study mathematics social science students are confronted with the fact that their disciplines involve learning about statistics another potential source of anxiety for students who are uncomfortable with dealing with numerical content Research on mathematical anxiety is a truly interdisciplinary field with contributions from educational developmental cognitive social and neuroscience researchers The
