Screen World 1985 1985:

Looking-Glass Wars: Spies on British Screens since 1960 Alan Burton, 2018-01-31 Looking Glass Wars Spies on British Screens since 1960 is a detailed historical and critical overview of espionage in British film and television in the important period since 1960. From that date the British spy screen was transformed under the influence of the tremendous success of James Bond in the cinema, the spy thriller, and of the new style spy writing of John le Carr and Len Deighton. The espionage story in the 1960s developed a popular cycle of spy thrillers in the cinema and on television. The new study looks in detail at the cycle which in previous work has been largely neglected in favour of the James Bond films. The study also brings new attention to espionage on British television and popular secret agent series such as Spy Trap, Quiller and The Sandbaggers. It also gives attention to the more realistic representation of spying in the film and television adaptations of le Carr and Deighton and other dramas with a more serious intent. In addition, there is wholly original attention given to nostalgic spy fictions on screen, adaptations of classic stories of espionage which were popular in the late 1970s and through the 1980s, and to historical spy fiction dramas which treated real cases of espionage and their characters, most notably the notorious Cambridge Spies. Detailed attention is also given to the secret state thriller, a cycle of paranoid screen dramas in the 1980s which portrayed the intelligence services in a conspiratorial light, best understood as a reaction to excessive official secrecy and anxieties about an unregulated security service. The study is brought up to date with an examination of screen espionage in Britain since the end of the Cold War. The approach is empirical and historical. The study examines the production and reception, literary and historical contexts of the films and dramas. It is the first detailed overview of the British spy screen in its crucial period since the 1960s and provides fresh attention to spy films, series and serials never previously considered.

Lee Marvin Robert J. Lentz, 2015-09-15 Lee Marvin did not receive his first starring film role until he was 40, but in three short years following the successes of Cat Ballou for which he won the Academy Award as Best Actor, The Professionals and especially The Dirty Dozen, he was the most popular film actor in America. Marvin was a fascinating man, a loving husband and father, and one of the most natural, effective actors of his time. This is a comprehensive reference of the Oscar-winning actor's work. It includes biographical information on Marvin, an analysis of each of his 64 movies, chapters on his two television shows, M Squad and Lawbreaker, a listing of his television appearances, and a complete filmography which includes video availability. The work is supplemented with dozens of photographs and film stills.

Mass Media in India 1992 Publications Division, 2017-09-15 This book gives a fair picture of the Mass Media as it operates at national level down to the grassroots level where DFP's network operates shoulder to shoulder with rural masses in the area of interpersonal communication. The whole volume has been divided into five chapters comprising articles by veteran practitioners of mass media of various shades.

Presenting Persis Khambatta Sherilyn Connelly, 2021-04-12 In 1965, 18-year-old Persis Khambatta became the third woman to be crowned Miss India. After moving to England and then to the United States, she found worldwide fame in the first Star Trek movie in 1979 and in 1980 she became the first Indian presenter at the Academy Awards. The American film industry seemed never to forgive Khambatta for being a non white woman who refused to do nude scenes. After failing to sustain a career as either a producer or a performer she achieved a triumph before her sudden death in 1998 with the publication of her book Pride of India: A Tribute to Miss India. Based on contemporary news articles and primary sources, this first biography examines Khambatta's Hindi and English language film and television work and demonstrates the many ways she was ahead of her time as a filmmaker, feminist and humanitarian. Books in Print, 1991

The Screens of Virtual Production Sian Mitchell, Colin Perry, Sean Redmond, Lienors Torre, 2025-04-24. This book is the first dedicated edited collection that explores the virtualisation of screen making processes from pre production to post production while attuning to the aesthetic, ideological and performative contexts upended by these integrated technologies. This book explores what is real in virtual production as a provocative one implicitly drawing on the philosophies of the moving image and the recent work on new forms of post human perceptual realism. This edited collection is divided into the following four themed sections. Section One: It's Always Been Real. Contemporising Virtual Production addresses the histories of film realism in relationship to visual technologies, providing both a theoretical and philosophical anchor point for the collection and a necessary genealogy. Section Two: The Body Becomes You. Performing Virtual Production examines the transformation that occurs in immersive virtual worlds while also exploring how the body is itself virtualised. Section Three: Skin Deep. Gazing with Virtual Production addresses the way race, ethnicity, gender and environment are supposedly equalised and yet are still found to reproduce the colonised looking regimes of western mainstream screen culture. Section Four: Whose Work? Labouring with Virtual Production draws together writing that examines the way production processes have been transformed, affecting not only work patterns but also the way aesthetics, form and function operate. This book encompasses many production themes and will appeal to media students and professionals interested in the production of film.

Canadian Film and Video Loren R. Lerner, 1997-01-01. This extensive bibliography and reference guide is an invaluable resource for researchers, practitioners, students and anyone with an interest in Canadian film and video. With over 24,500 entries, of which 10,500 are annotated, it opens up the literature devoted to Canadian film and video at last, making it readily accessible to scholars and researchers. Drawing on both English and French sources, it identifies books, catalogues, government reports, theses and periodical and newspaper articles from Canadian and non Canadian publications from the first decade of the twentieth century to 1989. The work is bilingual; descriptive annotations are presented in the language(s) of the original publication. Canadian Film and Video: Film et vidéo canadiens provides an in depth guide to the work of over 4000 individuals working in film and video and 5000 films and videos. The entries in Volume I cover topics such as film types, the role of government, laws and legislation, censorship, festivals and awards, production and distribution companies, education, cinema buildings, women and film and video art. A major section covers filmmakers, video artists, cinematographers, actors.

producers and various other film people Volume II presents an author index a film and video title index and a name and subject index In the tradition of the highly acclaimed publication Art and Architecture in Canada these volumes fill a long standing need for a comprehensive reference tool for Canadian film and video This bibliography guides and supports the work of film historians and practitioners media librarians and visual curators students and researchers and members of the general public with an interest in film and video

Reading Hollywood Deborah Thomas, 2019-07-25 This book examines the treatment of space and narrative in a selection of classic films including My Darling Clementine It's a Wonderful Life and Vertigo Deborah Thomas employs a variety of arguments in exploring the reading of space and its meaning in Hollywood cinema and film generally Topics covered include the importance of space in defining genre such as the necessity of an urban landscape for a gangster film to be a gangster film the ambiguity of offscreen space and spectatorship how an audience reads an unseen but inferred setting and the use of spatially disruptive cinematic techniques such as flashback to construct meaning
