Scientific Explanations and Interpretations

Facts, Observations, and Opinions

- Science is an inherently objective topic, as it requires facts to explain the world.
- Facts are information that are true.
- Facts come from data and results collected from observations and experiments.
- Data is factual information that isn't affected by opinions or bias.
- When conducting experiments, scientists can use observations and analysis to collect facts and predict what happens in the world.

Study Tip

Think about something you've read in a magazine, whether it is an article or a horoscope. Can you identify which are facts, and which are not?

Concept Check

- What is the difference between facts and data?
- Keep a lookout for opinions that sound like facts: investigate where the information comes from and whether it is true or not.

Allen, 2016-05-13 Scientists, philosophers, and theologians have wrestled repeatedly with the question of whether knowledge is similar or different in their various understandings of the world and God. Although agreement is still elusive, the epistemology of critical realism associated with Ian Barbour, John Polkinghorne, and Arthur Peacocke remains widely credible. Relying on the lifetime work of philosopher Ernan McMullin, this book expands our understanding of critical realism beyond a permanent stand-off between the subjective and objective, whether in science or theology. Critical realism illuminates the subject and the objectively known simultaneously. Responding to criticisms made against it, this book defends critical realism in science and theology with a specific role to play in our understanding of God.
