Scientific Foundations Of Paediatrics Pediatrics:

Scientific Foundations of Paediatrics John A. Davis, John Dobbing, 1974 Scientific Foundations of Paediatrics John Dobbing, 1974 Practical Paediatric Nutrition E. M. E. Poskitt, 2013-10-22 Practical Paediatric Nutrition deals with conventional children's nutrition in a clinical or community setting. The book reviews nutritional assessment using three complementary methods namely clinical nutritional assessment, symptoms, physical wasting, rickets, anthropometric assessment, manifestations, abnormal measurements, skinfold thickness, and biochemical assessment, analysis, hematology, urine. The text also addresses nutrition in pregnancy and its effects on the fetus. The book notes that selected food supplementation has negligible effects in the mean fetal weight of malnourished populations compared with well nourished populations. Placental insufficiency can also lead to fetal malnutrition. The text discusses breast feeding, cow's milk formulas, soya based formulas, and follow on formulas. For low birth weight infants, the choice of feeds are the infant's own mother's milk, expressed or banked, other banked breast milk, fortified human milk, own mother's or banked standard infant formula, or preterm infant formula. The book also explores the problem of weaning and failure to gain height or weight at the expected rates. The book is helpful for pediatricians, obstetricians, gynecologists, nurses, practitioners in general medicine, and administrators of public health services.

Tumours in Children H. B. Marsden,J. K. Steward,2012-12-06 Cancer in childhood is a rare disease but for many reasons attracts interest out of proportion to its frequency There is of course the parental anguish associated with a catastrophic illness in a son or daughter anguish shared in large measure by the physician This aspect no doubt has spurred on clinicians and investigators in their race to develop more effective means of treatment The rewards are great Not only is there the human element but there is also the fact that survival of the successfully treated child is measured in scores of years rather than the ordinary five to ten year survival rates cited for the adult Associated with this aspect of paediatric oncology is the responsibility to make those many years as trouble free as possible The challenge to the team organizing the care of children with cancer is clear Cure is to be obtained but not at the cost of progressively more severe somatic or psychic lesions as the child develops through adolescence to maturity The cured child of today must not become the chronically ill adult of tomorrow The spectrum of malignant diseases in childhood is not so varied as that of older patients The kinds of tumour seen in children are relatively few in number therefore concentrated attention can be focussed on each entity and specific strategies developed for clinical management

Smith, 2012-12-06 The maltreatment of children is an issue that has always been with us and civilized societies provide a range of services both social and medical to care for the children and families afflicted In recent years greater attention has been drawn to the medical aspects by competent authorities in the fields of forensic medicine forensic psychiatry epidemiological psychiatry child psychiatry and family psychiatry as well as the social aspects by those child welfare and child care agencies who have the difficult and distasteful task of removing children with the help of the courts from parents who can abuse them and are not able to care for them adequately A multitude of social agencies whose range of activities involve both the care and where possible the social betterment of afflicted families are now involved Not least in importance is an increase in our global knowledge to help in the prevention or better treatment of these problems This means more information on familial and genetic factors in human central nervous system development in its broadest sense This would include how the central
