answer to the Scottish Question The Scottish Question offers a fresh interpretation of what has made Scotland distinctive and how this changed over time drawing on an array of primary and secondary sources It challenges a number of myths including how radical Scottish politics has been and suggests that an oppositional political culture was one of the most distinguishing features of Scottish politics in the twentieth century A Scottish lobby consisting of public and private bodies became adept in making the case for more resources from the Treasury without facing up to some of Scotland's most deep rooted problems

Commons - International Development Committee: Implications for Development in the Event of Scotland

Becoming and Independent Country - HC 692 Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: International Development Committee, 2013-12-19 The UK's aid programme much of which is delivered from Scotland is genuinely transformational. The UK provided 8.7 billion of aid in 2012-13 but it is the quality of this aid not just its quantity which sets the UK apart. As part of the UK, Scotland makes a tremendous contribution to all this. If Scotland were to become an independent country its development agency would inevitably be a much smaller player. From 2013 onwards the UK Government plans to spend 0.7% of Gross National Income on Official Development Assistance. If Scotland were to become independent the UK's overall GNI and the amount of money it spends on ODA would fall. Scotland has 8.3% of the UK's population share so we estimate that the UK's ODA would fall by around 8.3% or 1 billion. DFID's work either its bilateral programmes or its funding to multilateral organisations would inevitably then be subject to cuts. MPs are also concerned that during any transitional period the restructuring of DFID and the setup of an independent Scottish development agency would divert management attention towards restructuring and away from frontline delivery by both agencies. In addition a significant proportion of DFID's workforce is based at its Scottish office in East Kilbride including a number of senior staff. By contrast the number of jobs available with an independent Scottish development agency is likely to be relatively few or the new Scottish development agency would be heavily overstaffed. The impact on jobs would therefore be substantial.
