Rose,2007-06-01 Previous volumes in this Developments in Paleoenvironmental Research DPER series have focussed on providing in depth descriptions of palaeoenvironmental techniques or have described the applications of these approaches on various regional bases The former of these now provide an invaluable series of standard text books for scientists and students while the latter show how the application of palaeo techniques can be used across broad geographical scales In this current volume we have attempted something a little different Not only are a variety of palaeo techniques applied to a single small lake but we have tried to show how these methods and the data derived from them can be integrated synergistically with contemporary monitoring and predictive modelling The acidification and metals research provide two good examples of this Along with other upland lakes across the UK the early research work at Lochnagar was based on assessing the competing hypotheses for the causes of surface water acidification As a result palaeolimnological techniques were used to assess the timing and extent of pH changes over hundreds of years The subsequent establishment of the UK Acid Waters Monitoring Network UK AWMN then allowed a range of biological and chemical parameters to be assessed routinely in order to determine the rate at which the lakes and streams including Lochnagar were recovering following emissions reductions Phoenix Assurance and the Development of British Insurance: Volume 2, The Era of the Insurance Giants 1870-1984 Clive Trebilcock, 1985 This is the second and final volume of the business history of one of the UK's oldest and largest insurance offices based upon probably the best archive in the business This volume covers the period from 1870 to the absorption of the Phoenix by Sun Alliance now Royal and Sun Alliance in 1984 The Phoenix papers are used to analyse the triumphs and trials not only of a single insurance venture but of an entire financial sector in a notably turbulent century Insurance is concerned with the way people drive the way they retire or buy their houses or invest or educate their children or go to war It follows that a major insurance history also throws light on many aspects of modern British social history As the great composite offices expanded to offer fire accident marine and life insurance across a single counter so they caught within their dealings an increasingly representative slice of British commercial and social life The Journal of the Fell and Rock Climbing Club of the English Lake District Fell and Rock Climbing Club of the English Lake District, 1912 Auto Motor Journal, 1902
