Pest Management and Food Production Montague Yudelman, Annu Ratta, David F. Nygaard, 1998-01-01 In their comprehensive paper Montague Yudelman Annu Ratta and Davi Nygaard examine the key issues with regard to pest management and food production over the coming decades They draw attention to the lack of adequate information on the magnitude and impact of pest losses without such information policymakers are handicapped when devising strategies for meeting food needs The authors address both chemical and nonchemical approaches to pest management highlighting the importance of biotechnology There is growing public sentiment against biotechnology but little appreciation as yet of its contributions to alleviating hunger by among other things controlling pest losses The authors also address the important subject of the roles of different actors in pest management most notably the private sector Advances in Microbial

Toxin Research and Its Biotechnological Exploitation Rajeev K. Upadhyay, 2013-03-14 Microbial toxins are secondary metabolites that accumulate in the organism and to a large extent are metabolically inactive towards the organism that produces them. The discovery of penicillin, a secondary metabolite of Penicillium notatum West P. chrysogenum Thom in 1929, marked a milestone in the development of antibiotics. Microbial toxins, in the intensive studies that followed this discovery, were chemically characterized. Several new molecules, toxins from secondary metabolites of microbes, some having a definite function in causing pathogenesis in plants, were discovered. Toxins are also known to play a significant role in inciting animal, human, and insect diseases and as plant growth regulators. Many common toxins have also been isolated from different microbes, exhibiting a wide spectrum of biological activity. Toxins are broadly divisible into several characteristic groupings: polyketides, oxygen heterocyclic compounds, pyrones, terpenoids, amino acids, diketopiperazines, polypeptides, etc. Recent research has indicated that these toxins play an important role in plant pathogenesis, disease epidemics, plant breeding, biological control of plant pathogens, and insect pests. Induced resistance, plant pathogen interactions, etc. Toxins produced by weed pathogens are exploited as lead molecules in developing environmentally friendly herbicides.
