Structural Equation Modeling in Educational Research, 2009-01-01 Over the years researchers have developed statistical methods to help them investigate and interpret issues of interest in many discipline areas These methods range from descriptive to inferential to multivariate statistics As the psychometrics measures in education become more complex vigorous and robust methods were needed in order to represent research data efficiently One such method is Structural Equation Modeling SEM SEM is a statistical technique that allows the simultaneous analysis of a series of structural equations It also allows a dependent variable in one equation to become an independent variable in another equation It is a comprehensive statistical approach to testing hypotheses about relations among observed and latent variables SEM is commonly known as causal modeling or path analysis which hypothesizes causal relationships among variables and tests the causal models with a linear equation system As educational research questions become more complex they need to be evaluated with more sophisticated tools The pervasive use of SEM in the literature has shown that SEM has a potential to be of assistance to modern educational researchers This book will bring together prominent educators and researchers from around the world to share their contemporary research on structural equation modeling in educational settings The chapters provide information on recent trends and developments and effective applications of the different models to answer various educational research questions This book is a critical and specialized source that describes recent advances in SEM in international academia

Standing Still Is Not an Option Christa Boske, 2019-10-01 This book captures the experiences of children in U S public schools and how they utilize artmaking to disrupt injustices they face These first time authors who represent school children parents teachers and community leaders focus on artmaking for social change Their first tellings provide thought provoking insights regarding the impact of artmaking on their capacity to promote social justice oriented work in K 12 school communities As the U S continues to experience significant demographic shifts including increases of homeless children children identified with learning differences thousands of refugees and immigrants children living in poverty children in foster care and increasing numbers of Children of Color those who work in schools will need to know how to address disparities facing these underserved communities These U S demographic shifts and issues facing underserved populations provide opportunities for children teachers families and school leaders to deepen their understanding regarding their experiences within their communities and K 12 schools as well as ways to interrupt oppressive practices and policies they face every day through art as social action Authors call upon decision makers who serve children from disenfranchised populations to utilize artmaking to create equal access for children to explore social justice equity reflective practices and promote authentic social action and change through artmaking Authors reflect on this artmaking process as a catalyst for increasing consciousness creating imaginative possibilities and facilitating meaningful change in schools Authors urge readers to create equal access art spaces to build bridges among schools families and communities Together they contend that artmaking promotes courageous conversations and encourages the exploration of what it means to live this significant work Praise for Standing Still Is Not an Option Standing Still Is Not an Option is a non traditional leadership text not just in words but in deeds It took courage for student first authors to write perform this text and it takes courage for us as educators to read it because our youth want us to speak up more and act differently To quote one student first author It was all new to me I never did anything like this before If I could go back in time I would tell the principals that they need to care about all of the kids not just the favorites If they could actually take the time and talk to me maybe you would actually care because you would get to know me I think they would learn I have a lot on my plate and they need to know about these things It would have really helped me if they would have listened to me talked to me and actually showed me they care If a principal would have shown me they cared I wouldn't be where I am today Isn't it past time that teachers and administrators learned to become their art and let their art remake them Ira Bogotch Professor Florida Atlantic University This book dares to explore the multi faceted nature of voice and its importance in narrating the experiences that have contoured the lives of persons who are so often conditioned socialized and placed in a voiceless space by educational institutions The use of artmaking to articulate hopes and fears in a non judgmental space that calls for a socially just education shifts the focus from traditional notions of narrative to the creative power of expression through art This work breaks new ground in pushing educational power brokers to come to grips with the multiple ways asymmetric power relations are propagated through traditional structures and how the power of creativity can respond to and disrupt these structures Michael Dantley Dean Professor Miami of Ohio University Christa Boske's edited volume provides an extraordinary service to educational leaders policy makers and those who care about the education stakeholders Through the chapters in this book Boske and her authors demonstrate the power of artistic storytelling and representation to the development and empowerment of young minds For those who care about the education of children and youth this is an essential read Michelle Young Professor University of Virginia former Executive Director of the University Council for Educational Administration UCEA
